Mighty $27,500 midget is crime fighter

A remote - controlled device developed for use by the British Army to combat terrorism has found its way into the Alameda County Sheriff's Department arsenal.

Hunter, a 450-pound bright yellow crimefighter resembling a small tank, was one of five such units purchased by the state at a cost of $27,500 each and distributed to those areas with the highest rate of terrorist incidents. Alameda County heads up that list in the state and is rated third nationwide.

Operational by a two-person team up to 328 feet away, Hunter can X-ray packages suspected to be bombs, take continuous closed circuit or videotape pictures, knock down barricaded doors, illuminate a dark crime scene, blast apart bombs before they explode and shoot five rounds of shotgun blasts.

Hunter will be field ready tomorrow following intensive training of bomb quad members. A preview of the device was held Friday at the Santa Rita Rehabilitation Center in Pleasanton.

Two electric engines, powered by dual 12-volt batteries and being adapted to accept house current, provide 500 pounds of thrust.

The county bomb squad's riskiest job is first approaching a device suspected of being explosive, said Sgt. Gary Seher. There is no way of telling when — or if — it will explode. Dogs trained to sniff out bmombs can also be utilized.

Using Hunter, police can many times take control of the device without endangering any lives. If the device explodes while being examined by Hunter, all that's lost is the purchase price. If the device can be prevented from exploding, police have strong evidence that could lead to the bomber.

Police can X-ray suspected packages to determine if they contain explosives or timing devices which gives them an indication of what procedure to take. Each case is different, said Seher, depending on the suspected bomb's location, its proximity to people, and the type of bomb.

Tubes of water attached to Hunter's movable snout can be exploded to blow apart many bombs before they can explode, said Lt. Clay Paxton, squad leader. The horizontal arm can be raised or lowered by remote control.

Hunter is transported home with members of the bomb squad on a rotating basis so it can be instantly mobilized. It can be loaded on a helicopter in 20 minutes for transport anywhere in the state, Paxton said.

Hunter will be fully prove its usefulness when citizens find potentially dangerous war souvenirs, blasting caps, sticks of dynamite or other possible explosives. It can also serve as a listening post in hostage type situations.

Hunter was purchased with funds from the state Office of Emergency Services. Other areas receiving the device are the City of Los Angeles, Los Angeles County, San Diego County, and Sacramento County.

Crackdown on those SR pilots

SAN RAMON — Twin Creeks residents reporting low-flying planes over their area are getting results from the Federal Aviation Administration which brings offending pilots to justice.

Since Jan. 17, 1974, seven pilots and/or passengers have been killed in small aircraft crashes in the San Ramon area which includes Twin Creeks.

After witnessing a mid-air collision near her Twin Creeks home June 2, 1977, Pat Boom initiated the plane spotting and reporting program. Three people were killed in that crash.

She said the aim of the program is to try and prevent more tragedies. This includes the possibility of a plane hitting a residential area and injuring or killing people on the ground.

Another plane crash Aug. 7, 1977 ended in two fatalities.

Since the initiation of the program in June, 1977, an FAA spokesman said "approximately 10" offenses had been reported by the Twin Creeks homeowners.

"Approximately three of the 10 had enforcement action taken against them," the FAA spokesman added. "Word is really out among the pilots and the spotting and reporting program is effective."

The FAA spokesman and the Booms explained the San Ramon Valley has long been a favorite practice area for pilots. The trouble

Prolonged AC strike

Agreement reached: buses to roll?

Traffic controller Bob Siders was one of eight Livermore tower FAA personnel who brought in a record 203,992 flights to the municipal airport in 1977. Federal officials and airport manager Gene Maestas said the airport is far ahead of its projected growth rate.

BART feeder buses should be rolling in the Valley under "near normal" conditions tomorrow.

At least that's the opinion of John Wesley, president of Amalgamated Transit Union Division 192. Wesley told The Times Friday that the eight-week-old AC Transit strike is expected to end by midnight tonight pending ratification of an agreement between the union and Alameda - Contra Costa County Transit District.

Some 1,884 drivers and office personnel for the transit district walked off the job Nov. 21, hoping to land a better pension plan for Local 192 members.

The strike has paralyzed about 1,150 commuters in the Valley who were forced to find alternative transportation to BART stations.

A tentative agreement was reached Friday morning after AC Transit directors and union officials spent all night at the bargaining table.

State conciliator Joseph Anderson ordered a news blackout Jan. 7, so both sides could trade proposals and have enough time to compute their costs.

AC transit spokesman Mike Mills believes the district will not have to go to the "fare box or tax rolls" to a great extent to compensate additional labor costs. "An extremely crude estimate," Mills said, "shows that revenues exceeded operating expenses by $500,000 per week."

Calculations from a BART spokesman estimate that $60,000 of revenue was lost by AC during the two month strike but some $320,000 was saved in operating expenses because the buses were not running.

Livermore municipal

Airport business picks up speed

It has a budget near $1,000 per day and plays host to a wide variety of small and large private planes, crop dusters, flight schools and even the U.S. Government through Lawrence Livermore Laboratory and it is growing at a rate no one expected five years ago.

As a business, Livermore municipal airport has taken-off.

A record 203,992 separate flights (each a takeoff and landing) were recored at Livermore last year, a 9.6 percent increase over 1976 which also was a record year.

Prior to 1973, its first year of partial operations, airport planners projected 250,000 flights annually by 1982 and the need for a second runway at that time.

Current traffic consists largely of "general aviation," civilian private pilots on business or pleasure trips or student pilots practicing "touch and go" techniques which are counted officially as a separate flights.

LLL bases its large F-27 two engine turbo-prop there and the commercial air taxi service to San Francisco, Oakland and San Jose by Landeck Aviation also calls the field home.

One reason for the airport's growing popularity is increased crowding at San Jose and Hayward airports which have turned pilots toward the Valley.

Now, says manager Gene Maestas, more facilities could be needed here as early as 1980 or 1981.

Pipeline pact costs drawn

Documents splitting the cost of the $28 million Valley sewage export pipeline between Livermore, Pleasanton and the Dublin - San Ramon Services District were finalized Thursday by members of the Livermore - Amador Valley Water Management Agency (LAVWMA).

LAVWMA members also approved an agreement to buy into the East Bay Dischargers Authority "super-sewer," a massive project designed to take the effluent of several south county communities to San Francisco Bay.

Construction is expected to begin within the next several months with completion expected by 1980.

Joint candidates' night

A Candidate's Night, including both Livermore and Pleasanton city council hopefuls, is open to the general public Tuesday, at 8 p.m. in the Pleasanton Hotel on Main Street.

Judge Mark Eaton serves as moderator during the two hour session. Pleasanton candidates will speak from 8 to 9 p.m., including 20 minutes for a question and answer period. Livermore candidates follow from 9 to 10 p.m.

All questions must be written and submitted to Judge Eaton. This first official candidates night in the two races is sponsored by the Pleasanton,Livermore and Dublin Democratic Club.

Murray Dist. vandalism shows drop

Principals in the Murray School District have noted a perceptible decline in vandalism in recent months, though the district continues to budget a set amount of $12,000 to cover instances of broken windows, grafitti markings, and damaged equipment.

Members of the Parent - Administrative Council learned Thursday night the cost is less now than it has been in the past. The discussion was triggered in part by a costly incident of paint damage at Fallon School and adjoining Kolb Park in Dublin last August.

The culprits reportedly smeared the inside of the school with paint and also spilled paint in the park. They were later apprehended and spent 3½ days cleaning up the damage.

Frederiksen School presently has a plan whereby $1 is put into a fund to cover the cost of any vandalism.

Howard Pease

Livermore novelist's rediscovery

Mystery writer Howard Pease, who died in Livermore in 1974, may just be re-discovered by a whole new generation of young readers — through television.

Pease, who wrote a series of adventure novels about a character called Tod Moran, has been in the mind of executives of Universal Studios lately. They remembered his novels, and have picked up an option on the whole series, which could be transformed into a "Hardy Boys" or "Nancy Drew"-type TV series in the future. That could mean the local writer, who also taught at Vassar and attended Stanford, will become a household word again, with a completely new generation of readers.

Broken glass injures woman

LIVERMORE — A woman watching her husband park his car at their Norma Way apartment complex Thursday was injured when a rock shattered the window she was looking through and covered her with shards of glass, police reported.

Esther Darlene Scott told officers that three juveniles were in the area when the attack occurred about 9 p.m.

Scott was treated at Valley Memorial Hospital for cuts to her face, neck and hands. An investigation into the attack is continuing.

LIVERMORE — A man accused of attempting to steal a bottle of whiskey from Kavanagh's Liquors at 4068 East Ave. allegedly slugged a clerk who made that charge, police reported.

David Ritter, a clerk at the store, told police that store employees had seen a man put a bottle of whiskey under his vest about 7:20 p.m. Thursday. When the suspect noticed clerks pointing him out, he put the bottle back and began to leave, Ritter told officers.

According to reports, the suspect became angry when accused of shoplifting and struck Ritter in the face. A struggle between the two ended when police arrived.

Arrested and booked on suspicion of battery and theft was Mark Alan Christiansen, 21, of 855 Mayview Way.

LIVERMORE — A 13-year-old youth trying to break into an Ontario Drive residence Monday was arrested when the homeowner — California Highway Patrol Officer — returned home and found the youth lying outside a broken window, police reported.

The youth told police he was walking by the house when an "urge to steal something" developed. He used a hose nozzle to break the window when the officer returned home.

Police said the youth had been released one month earlier from a Nevada training center where he had served two years for committing several burglaries.

LIVERMORE — A bearded man exposed himself to two women at the Vineyard Shopping Center across from the Livermore police station Thursday evening, police reported.

A woman preparing to close a store in the center said a man walked in, exposed himself, and then walked out of the shop about 7:30 p.m.

Fifteen minutes later, a woman putting grocery bags in her car turned to see a man emerge from a telephone booth while exposing himself, officers reported.

The suspect is described as a white man about 24, 5-foot-9, medium build, with dark hair and a full beard.

PLEASANTON — Burglars cut padlocks to a horse stall at the Alameda County Fairgrounds Friday and stole $364 of riding equipment, police reported.

Graston Horse Training reported the theft of saddle bridles, cinches and other equipment. There are no suspects.

LIVERMORE — Four tires and wheels from a van parked on Charlotte Way were stolen Tuesday, police reported.

Witnesses reported seeing two men jacking up the van and called police. No suspects were found at the scene but a tire iron and papers apparently belonging to the thieves were recovered. The investigation is continuing.

LIVERMORE — An am/fm radio and CB radio valued at $269 were stolen from a van parked in a Murrieta Boulevard apartment complex Tuesday, police reported.

The vehicle was locked, reported owner Kenneth Ortega. There are no suspects.

America loses stately fighter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey returned to Washington on Saturday, where he was mourned in death as he had been revered in life by his family, colleagues and countless Americans.

Hundreds of persons braved the winter cold to pay last respects to Humphrey. Many wept as they filed past his body, which lay in state under the soaring dome of the Capitol — the scene of many of Humphrey's victories, defeats and most memorable orations.

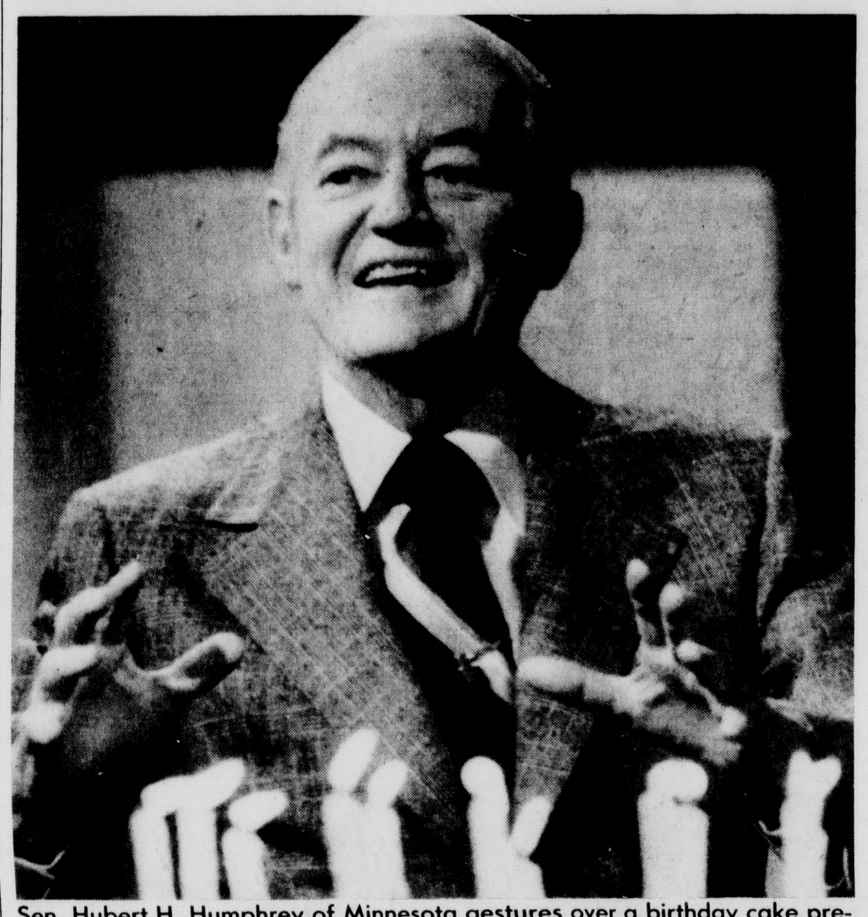
Humphrey, 66, lost his long and valiant battle with cancer at 9:25 p.m. CST Friday at his home in Waverly, Minn. A presidential jet transported Humphrey's body to the nation's capital on Saturday morning.

A 19-gun salute — the honor due Humphrey as a former vice president, was sounded as Humphrey arrived at Andrews Air Force Base in suburban Maryland and again when the body arrived at the Capitol at the head of a 14-car motorcade.

A military band played "God of Our Fathers" and "A Mighty Fortress is our God."

The body of Minnesota's senior senator was borne by eight uniformed soldiers, sailors, airmen and Marines into the Capitol building that was the hallmark and symbol of his long Washington career. Humphrey, who sought but never won the presidency, was lain on the black velvet catafalque first used in 1865 for the body of slain President Abraham Lincoln.

Many who passed Humphrey's flag-draped, closed coffin were crying. More than one said, "He touched my life."



Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota gestures over a birthday cake presented to him the day before his 66th birthday last May, after taping of NBC-TV's "Today" show in Washington.

Flight action zooms

With the increase come greater demands for aviation fuel, the airport's main money-maker and private hangar space which, he says, has a long waiting list now.

FAA head in Livermore Bill Garber pointed out that while Valley air traffic was small when compared with the San Francisco-Oakland area or the world's busiest, Chicago's O'Hare, the FAA still keeps eight full time traffic controllers in Livermore.

The tower operates from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. every day then leaves the landing lights on when it closes because, Garber said, "There isn't enough activity to warrant it (open)."

Still there has never been a two-plane accident and just a few single-plane mishaps like Dec. 29's case when an empty fuel tank forced a small plane to fall short of the field and leave a king-size divot on the nearby Las Positas golf course.

Such cases have been rare and to prevent them the airport sells fuel which generates most of its income.

Fuel is purchased from Shell Oil Co. and "We're just like a dealer, dependent on profits," said Maestas.

"We've passed on all Shell's increases to the consumer and they don't like it but we sell more every year," he said.

"When I came here in 1970, and really for the first three years after that, the fuel cost about 50 cents a gallon. Now its up to between 83 and 85 cents," he said.

Still, he pointed out, recreational and business fliers alike have shown no inclination to give up flying simply because of higher costs.

Of the airport's current $365,000 annual budget, wholesale fuel costs represent almost half, $182,000. Other expenses include $50,000 for improvements, $53,000 in salaries for three full time and two part time employees, $14,000 in insurance and $13,000 returned to the city as an administrative surcharge for the use of the city attorney, city manager and other personnel.

Still, operations break even through fuel sales, landing fees for a smallumber of commercial users and charges to the airport's operators, business Altamont Aviation and Landeck Aviation.

Still, Maestas said, overall operations were slightly in the red last year because of building costs for the new . hangar facilities for 63 private planes which rent for $70 monthly.

Increased demand for hangars has accompanied increased use of the field and with 200 aircraft based in Livermore but only 63 hangars Maestas has started a waiting list for the prized spots and hopes to build more.

Overall, he says, facility expansion is a matter of responding as demands increase. The airport is currently in the process of buying 126½ acres, 108 on the east side for a "clear zone" near the runway and 18½ on the south side for possible hangar sites.

AC strike ending if union accepts

Mills emphasized however that the AC board of directors has not discussed fare increase because "they don't know what the labor contract costs."

Local 192 president John Wesley said he would "not go into details or a discussion of the labor package because it is yet to be ratified."

BART District Director Robert S. Allen of Livermore termed the eight week affair as a "self defeating strike that injured the credibility of public transportation."

It's been a stupid strike," he said. "It would be beautiful if they could get the BART feeder service going again by Monday."

In protest of the strike, Allen hitchhiked nearly everyday the 20 mile distance from his house to BART.

Allen speculated that some of the feeder bus patronage would drop off if the buses start rolling again because many people will stick with transportation alternatives they were forced to adopt when the strike began.

Livermore council ponders solar heat

LIVERMORE — Whether or not to include solar heating and domestic hot water system in the new administration building and the police building will headline new business at the city council meeting, 8 p.m. tomorrow.

Consulting engineers have completed preliminary studies which will be discussed at the meeting. The city must decide by Jan. 23 whether or not to apply for a federal construction grant which would share the cost of the system with the city.

The grant approval depends largely on the share the city is willing to pay for the project, estimated to cost about $146,000. The proposed system for the city would be liquid type, with a 3000 gallon storage tank.

City manager Bill Parness, in his report to council members, recomends the city applying for the grant with local funds limited to 10 or 15 per cent.

In recommending the proposal, the city staff reports points out the anticipated energy and cost savings versus the project cost.

The project would not include air conditioning because of "the uncertain technology and the poor cost-dffectiveness of current solar cooling systems," the staff reports notes.

SRV dwellers spot low flying planes started when the building boom hit the area erasing wide open spaces that were safer for planes to practice over, they added.

Twin Creeks homeowners are asked to report pilots flying lower than legally allowed to the FAA. If possible, they are to try and get the plane's identification number.

Getting this number has been made more difficult due to a new federal ruling. The new ruling allows numbers to be reduced from the 12 inch size to three inches on planes whose cruising speed is less that 180 miles per hour, according to the FAA spokesman.

He mentioned that six FAA staff members live in the Livermore, Pleasanton, Dublin and San Ramon communities.

"Many enforcement actions have been taken toward pilots because we have seen them flying at illegal heights from where we live."

The general rule is 1000 feet above ground for straight and level flying; 1500, for turns and maneuvers, Pat explained. She added that some pilots get into trouble by not adjusting their altimeter readings for variances in sea level.

Enforcement actions can involve anything from a "talk" to suspending or revoking a pilot's license, the FAA spokesman said.

Pat said homeowners were not trying to clear the skies entirely of planes over San Ramon; just the ones flying illegally. She a added that too many planes crowded air space at times. Reducing density of planes is another program objective.

She is circulating petitions for further program support among Twin Creeks homeowners. When returned, these petitions will be submitted to the FAA to add more clout to the issue. She said plans were being made to inform supervisors, assemblymen, congressmen and other law-making bodies about the problem.

County pension for Enoch set

OAKLAND — The resignation of County Administrator Loren Enoch from his $54,600-a-year job has some people wondering how much pension he will draw from that top county salary.

And it raises the larger question: is Alameda County in good shape to pay the pensions of its 9,500 employees or will it get in trouble with the actuaries as the Oakland police and fire pension system did a couple of years ago?

David Tobias, the county's retirement administrator, could not give specifics about any particular county employee, but he did look at the public information available and state that any county employee who is 57 and has workd for Alameda County for six years has accumulated the right to retire at 12 per cent of his or her final salary.

In Enoch's case, that will mean an annual retirement check of $6,552. Of course, Enoch paid some of his paycheck into that fund and the older the employee when he or she first starts with the county, the more is paid in.

Enoch worked for Los Angeles County for 15 years and paid in there, too. He will collect a certain percentage from Los Angeles based on his $54,600 final pay with Alameda County. The same holds true for the pension he will get from Ventura County, where he worked for 10 years.

All three counties are on a cooperative agreement where the last salary earned is used as the basis for figuring, said Tobias. "The have worked up to the same level," said Tobias.

"There's no danger of the the Oakland police and fire thing happening here," said Tobias. "They had provisions that were not sound financially and they changed some of that through ballot propositions. For example, they said retirees would get the same cost of living increases which the working ppolice and fire did — even if it was as high as 10 per cent."

Going along like that for a few years could very well see more paid out in pensions than in wages in a system, but nothing like that will they'd like to see the lid off."

The county this year will pay $16 million into the retirement fund. That is 4.4 per cent of the total general fund. By comparison, the county will pay approximately $128 million in salaries this year, or roughly a third of the general fund.

Last year the county paid $14 million into retirement, or 3.9 per cent of the general fund. Total wages amounted to $120 million.

The county's retirement office has nine positions and is totally self-supporting from the investments which the retirement fund makes, said Tobias.

Realty firm bids for 'Y' building

PLEASANTON — Just one would-be savior of the YMCA building of on Rose Avenue submitted a bid by deadline Friday, according to director of engineering services Don Sooby.

Harris Realty is willing to pay $1,739 for the old two-story building, relocate it and preserve it, said Sooby, adding he'll probably recommend the city council accept the bid at council's Jan. 24 meeting.

Sooby expressed some surprise that the city's offer of one guaranteed sewage connection to a bidder who will preserve the building didn't entice more buyers.

Being guaranteed a sewage connection is similar to being gauranteed a new set of teeth the tooth fairy at the age of 80 in this city. But the cost of moving the house may explain buyer reluctance. Sooby estimates the move could cost as little as $10,000 — or much more — depending on where the building's new home will be.

The guarantee of being able to buy a connection applies only if the buyer relocates the building within the Sunol sewer district. Sooby doesn't know where the buyer intends to place the building, or what it will next be used for.

City council has mandated the building be removed from the Rose Avenue property by March 20 to make room for construction extending Peters Avenue. Bids for the avenue extension will open before June 30, according to Sooby.

The YMCA and other occupants of the early 1900's building have moved into new homes.

Even though just one bid came in, Sooby considers it a success as the city no longer faces the unpleasant prospect of demolishing the attractive old building.

Less vandalism action seen in Murray schools

Whatever funds are leftover at the end of the semester go to student activities.

The council also discussed crossing guards, specifically in the Dublin School area. A child, apparently going to the school, was hit by a car within the last month.

Dublin representatives asked about forming a "safety patrol" at the school, to supervise crossing points for students. Such patrols are presently in existence at other schools.

The council later broke into three groups and discussed what they'd like to see in the Murray district "five years from now." Among the items on the "wish list" were improved resources and instruction in mathematics, and enlarged programs for Special Education and for Mentally Gifted Minors (MGM).

Assistant Superintendent Heinz Gewing announced the Dublin - San Ramon Services District is sponsoring a program, "Vandalism: A Community Problem With Community Needs" on Thursday, Feb. 16, 7 p.m., at Shannon Park Community Center.

Representatives of all school district are being invited to attend as well as the Sheriff's department and residents.

Sandia's solar work

Sandia Laboratories hopes to put into operation a pilot solar-fired power plant in Barstow by early 1981 as a possible future alternative to dwindling energy supplies.

Richard C. Wayne of Sandia told members of the Livermore-Amador Valley Exchange Club last week that full development of solar power is years away but early experiments are promising.

Current concepts of large-scale solar-powered energy production plants are based on a central receiver situated atop a tower to collect the sun's rays concentrated on it by any number of large mirror reflectors.

These mirrors or heliostats, are mounted on motors so they follow the sun and continue to direct the sun's rays on the target as the sun moves across the sky. The resultant high temperature heats a boiler that produces steam to turn a turbine generater and thus produces electricity.

Wayne said the process is proven but works at only 20 to 40 percent efficiency.

One of the bigg$st problems is keeping the mirrors clean, he said. Dust begins to collect on the heliostats almost immediately, causing a 5 percent loss in efficiency.

The mirrors can be washed once every three months to maintain their usefullness since the dust doesn't seem to build up. The labor costs involved will be the largest of all maintenance and operation procedures, Wayne said.

Existing technology is being used where possible to speed the development while keeping costs lower. One experimental plant at Sandia's Albuquerque, New Mexico laboratory is currently being used to provide power to a building on-site. Many mistakes in early theories about solar power were discovered through this experimental application, Wayne said.

Once solar power is made practical, plants designed to operate in the west will have to be 15 percent more efficient in the nation's midsection and up to 25 percent more efficient in the colder northeastern areas.

Of the $2.7 billion allocated for advanced technology development of energy in the United States, $100 million is being applied to perfecting solar power, Wayne said.

Blackhawk park urged

DANVILLE — A citizens' advisory committee has recommended that the Contra Costa County Board of Supervisors approve plans to use the Blackhawk detention basin as a park.

The advisory committee to the R-7 parks and recreation area that stretches from Alamo to San Ramon made the decision last week.

It asked the supervisors to allow the flood control basin to be used for four tennis courts, about three softball fields, a children's play area and parking for between 150 and 190 vehicles.

The committee also authorized preparation of an environmental impact report on the park site plans, which will cost from $2,500 to $4,000, according to the area staff.

Housing counselors meet

The California Housing Action and Information Network (CHAIN) will conduct its second annual conference tomorrow at Benjamin Franklin Junior High School, 1430 Scott St., San Francisco.

CHAIN is a private nonprofit coalition of tenant unions, community groups and public interest advocates concerned with housing and community development issues. It was founded in 1976 in Los Angeles at a conference called to discuss the need for a statewide housing organization which could provide an active, organized voice on behalf of low and middle income housing consumers, both renters and homeowners and to srve as a clearing house for information on housing issues and policies.

For further information, write to CHAIN, P.O. Box 2103, Sacramento,95810.

Facts on insulation

LIVERMORE — The city has issued a public service bulletin on "Facts on Home Insulation," which is available at no cost in the building inspection department.

Three in race for Alameda sheriff

Victor James, a Laney College teacher who lost a runoff election to Tom Houchins in the 1974 race for sheriff of Alameda County, told The Times yesterday he won't run for sheriff this year.

James was the second leading vote-getter in the six-man field four years ago. Houchins was forced into a runoff after failing by .5 percent to obtain a majority of the votes cast.

Houchins announced earlier this week he would not seek re-election. He has endorsed Undersheriff Glenn Dyer to succeed him.

Three persons have taken out papers to collect signatures for inclusion on the June 6 primary ballot. These include Dyer; Andy Ford, a civilian employee at Santa Rita Rehabilitation Center in Pleaanton; and a Walter Gibbons, profession unknown.

Eleven-year old Jill Whelan of Livermore has earned a key role in the major west coast production of "Annie," which will debut at the Curran Theatre in San Francisco June 12.

The daughter of Charles and Carol Whelan, Jill has been a student of Marie Cochran of Pleasanton, has gained acclaim for several little theater roles in the Valley and Walnut Creek and has appeared in television commercials, most recently in her first "national" one for M and M Candy.

Jill will play the part of one of the orphans in the hit Broadway musical. Two other youngsters from San Jose have also been cast as orphans in the musical version of the comic strip Little Orphan Annie.

Reharsals begin May 8, tentatively at the renowned Shubert Theatre in West Los Angeles-Century City.

A Los Angeles-area girl has been cast in the title role with Keene Curtis to play Daddy Warbucks and Jane Cannell Mrs. Hannigan.

Peter Gennaro will be choreographer.

After five weeks of rehearsals, the production will have its West Coast premiere at the Curran in San Francisco. It will play four months and then move to the Shubert for an "open end" run starting Sept. 25. The show is tentatively set to return to San Francisco after the L.A. run.

Jill was referred to auditions held at the Mark Taper Forum and the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center by a Los Angeles-based theatrical agent, Phil Randall, who is a fomer resident of Livermore. Randall reportedly was in the Valley during the holidays to visit his parents.

Her successful audition and call-back performances may also net her additional television roles.

Both Jill and Holly Vonk of Danville, also a student of Marie Cochran's, traveled south to audition, specifically for the title role as now being played by Andrea McArdle on Broadway. Both reportedly impressed the production staff and theatrical agents and were invited to call-backs.

Orginally referred to the auditions by professional actress Lainie Nelson, Jill sang "Let Me Entertain You" from "Gypsy" at the auditions held in early December. She played Baby June in the Pleasanton Playhouse production last summer, had a role in the Valley Performing Arts Company's "Carnival," and understudied in a Contra Costa production of "The Sound of Music."

In addition to considerable dancing, Jill was asked to do the "Gypsy" number again at call-backs as a sad clown, a Pagliacci, might do it.

The call-backs reportedly lasted some 13 hours and included a galaxy of prominent show business performers such as Kaye Ballard and Jo Ann Worley.

Eighteen young girls were competing for the "Annie" role, won by the diminutive Los Angeles-area 10-year old.

Jill debuted locally 2 1/1 years ago in a chorus role in the Pleasanton Playhouse production of "The King and I," which starred Marie Cochran and husband Fred Cochran.

Mrs. Cochran, along with Raylene Ewing, are presently organizing a musical theater workshop to be sponsored by the Pleasanton Recreation DePartment and held on Wednesdays from 3 to 5 p.m. at the Veterans Memorial Building. More information on the workshop can be obtained by calling the recreation department at 846-3202.

Thirteen-year old Holly Vonk, who also was well-received in the "Annie" auditions, has appeared in many Valley and Contra Costa productions, including the role of Baby Louise in "Gypsy" for Pleasanton Playhouse.

Tax break to keep SR land agricultural

DANVILLE — Ninety-five acres have been added to the San Ramon Valley's share of agricultural preserve districts, as a result of the valley's Planning Commission action Wednesday.

Lands placed in agricultural preserves in Contra Costa County are to remain in commercial agricultural use for a 10-year contract period.

In exchange for assuring the county of continued agricultural activity and open space, the land owner receives a tax break.

The planning commission voted 5-0 to change the zoning for three areas from general agricultural use to the agricultural preserve.

In doing so, it rejected recommendations from the county's Land Conservation Steering Committee for two areas.

The committee reviewed the applications and recommended that rezoning requests for 20 acres on the west side of Morgan Territory Road, near the Contra Costa and Alameda County lines, and 20 acres off the north side of Johnson Road in the Tassajara area, be denied.

The committee, comprised of the county assessor, county administrator, a member of the county counsel's office and some members of the planning staff, instead said the areas should be placed in an open space program — when one is adopted by the county.

But it did recommend approval of the zone change for about 53 acres on the north side of Highland Road, near Camino Tassajara.

The planning staff differed with the committee, saying all three areas should be included in the agricultural preserve designation because the change meets open space needs of the county.

The staff said the Morgan Territory Road property will be used primarily for grazing of livestock, and will meet the minimum parcels requirement of 20 acres under agricultural preserve zoning.

It said the change made the same argument for the Johnson Road property, and a similar plea for the land on Highland Road.

A hearing on agricultural preserves has been scheduled for Jan. 31 by the Board of Supervisors.

According to Harvey Bragdon, assistant county planning director. Contra Costa does not have an open space preservation ordinance which would allow land owners tax exemptions through contracts such as the agricultural preserve program.

However, he said the planning staff is working on such an ordinance.

Planners rezone farms

DANVILLE — To keep pace with a revised general plan, the San Ramon Valley Planning Commission Wednesday approved rezoning of agricultural property on Povda Road to multi-family residential use.

Both the .44 acre owned by Charles James and the 9.1 acres owned by John and Ann Mott were involved.

James' property is located on Povda Lane and San Ramon Valley Boulevard. He plans to subdivide the property and build a single-family home.

The Mott property is located in the same area.

Originally, the G&M Development Co., which acted as the Motts' applicant, asked for rezoning to a limited office district.

However, it has now agreed to the multiple-family residential zoning.

The Contra Costa County planning staff recommended the changes, saying they would bring the property into conformance with the general plan.

The plan calls for the area to be developed as medium-density multiple-family residential.

Currently there are no buildings on the Mott property.

Two churches, single-family homes and an unproductive orchard occupy the James land.

Big trials mean more expense

OAKLAND — Alameda County ought to consider allocating an extra $5 million or so for five big expensive trials expected here in 1978, Supervisor John George suggested last week.

Supervisors asked County Administrator Loren Enoch to investigate the suggestion.

The figure probably is far too high, District Attorney Lowell Jensen told The Times. A trial costs Alameda County $3,000 per day. If each of the five trials ran three months, that would mean $180,000 per trial, or an aggregate of $900,000. There are 20 trial days in each month, according to Jensen's calculations.

Jensen didn't have any estimate about the cost of extra security, but it would not be several million dollars.

The three trials which could require extraordinary security would be those of Bill and Emily Harris, Eldridge Cleaver and Huey Newton. Two others — Joseph Egenberger, who turned himself in concerning the murder of UC. student Judy Williamson in 1963, and the trial of an Oakland attorney accused of fraud — would not require any heavy security.

The Harrises will be tried for the kidnap of Patricia Hearst in 1974 and Cleaver faces charges from an Oakland shootout in 1968. Huey Newton is accused of the murder of an Oakland prostitute and the pistol-whipping of an Oakland tailor.

All of the cases are at the preliminary hearing stage. Cleaver's is being held up while the Supreme Court rules on a point of search and seizure.

A meeting to study Tassajara

DANVILLE — A special study session on planning for the Tassajara area on the east side of the San Ramon Valley has been set for Wednesday, Jan. 18.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in Supervisor Eric Hasseltine's office at the Danville Veterans' Building on Hartz Avenue.

The San Ramon Valley Planning Commission and planning staff of Contra Costa County will discuss the agricultural lands in the Camino Tassajara area, which have been the focus of increasing attention by developers.

The planning staff is scheduled to present a report on subdivision activity in the area.

Several applications for subdivisions have been postponed by the commission because of the report and special meeting.

A 30-lot tract approved

DANVILLE — A 30-lot subdivision on the north side of Camino Tassajara, across from Old Orchard Drive, was approved Wednesday by the San Ramon Valley Planning Commission.

The Starlite Homes project will be built on about 15 acres of gently sloping grasslands, with lots ranging from 10,000 to 22,960 square feet.

The commission ruled that another lot be eliminated from the plans because of extensive grading that would be required to build a home there.

It also said a certified soils engineer must be present during any grading at the subdivision site.

Surrounding the Starlite site are the Las Lomitas subdivisions to the west, the Sycamore planned unit development to the south, and vacant lands on the north and east, zoned for agricultural and residential uses, respectively.

First reward check given

The first reward check, part of the extensive anti-vandalism campaign of the Livermore Valley Unified School District, the city and Livermore Area Recreation and Park District has been presented to a Livermore man.

Joseph W. Nalty received $25 for information that led to the recovery of $446 in stolen equipment from Sonoma School.

How to help kids

"Helping Kids" will be the topic of a general meeting sponsored by the PTA at Junction Avenue School, 298 Junction Ave., Livermore this Thursday night from 7:30 to 9 o'clock.

Scheduled speakers include Dr. R. Elin from the Learning and Counselling Center in Stockton and Ms. Amy Dooha and Peggy Harper from "Hotline" who also counel at Junction. They will discuss special services and programs available to intermediate school students. There is no fee and the public is invited.

Adult classes open

Openings are still available in many day and evening classes in the Livermore Adult School's winter quarter which started last week and will continue until all have filled.

In addition to over 100 classes carried over from last quarter, classes now available include auto mechanics, amateur radio regulations, tax preparation, basic drawing, music, priting, crafts, woodcarving and business machines.

The registration fee is $3 for one or more classes and persons interested in more information can call 447-6671 or register at the adult school office, 3044 East Ave.

Child care class set

LIVERMORE — Valley Child Care has been awarded a grant to provide training for 12 unemployed. out of school youth, ages 16 to 21, to work with children in group care settings in the valley.

The new Youth Training Program will begin soon and run for four and a half months, being repeated again in the spring. Valley Child Care will provide the salaries, benefits and transportation costs for eligible youth participants as well as developing and coordinating the training.

Participants will receive a salary for on the job training in various nursery schools and day care centers located in Dublin, Livermore and Pleasanton. The training program will include regular seminars and workshops as well as on-site supervision by staff people.

For further information call Valley Child Care at 455-5111 and ask for Lynn Glenn.

Lunch menus out

The school lunch menu for the third week of the 1978 school year has been announced by the Livermore Valley Joint Unified School District. All lunches include ½ pint of milk. This week:

Monday — Barecue beef on bun, potato chips, crisp salad, banana and chocolate milk.

Tuesday — Hot dog on bun, french fries, salad, orange wedge and peanut cluster.

Wednesday — Hamburger on bun, french fries, garden salad and fruit.

Thursday — Turkey and gravy, whipped potatoes, green salad, cranberry sauce, orange wedges, bread and butter, chocolate milk.

Friday — Cheese pizza on bun, buttered corn, crisp green salad and fruit.

Reunion search on

Three Valley residents are searching for classmates from 1964's class at Oakland's High School for their reunion next Sept. 16.

Reunion plans have been set by Dorothy Blum Davis and Susan Girton Glanville of Pleasanton and Kathleen Ray Pittlick of Livermore, three members of the steering committee, who are rounding up the names and adrese of the over 670 Skyline graduates from 1964.

Information on the reunion, set for Boundry Oaks in Walnut Creek, can be sent to 508 McArthur Blvd., Oakland, 94609 or call 482-4482.

Chabot looks at valuation

South County Community College District trustees will discuss adjustment of district assessed valuation by reason of redevelopment agency improvements at their meeting Tuesday.

The board convenes at 7:30 p.m. in Building 200 of Chabot College in Hayward.

Superintendent Reed Buffington will report on enrollments for the autumn quarter and proposed replacement of computer hardware.

Approval of a five-year plan for construction, parking on the Hayward campus, and the procedure for selection of student member of board of trustees are also on the agenda.

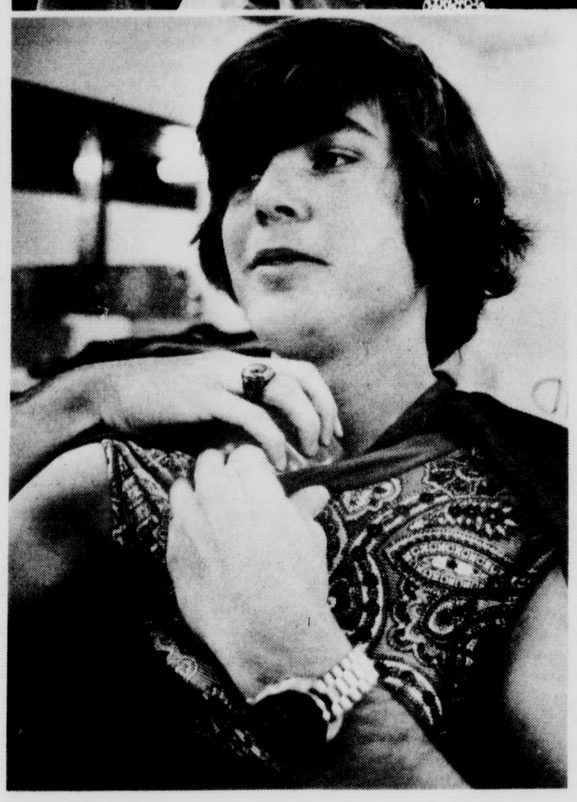
In line for grant

Carrie Mae Linn of Livermore, a married mother of four and history major at Cal State Hayward, has been nominated by the school for the Harry S. Truman scholarship competition for 1978.

The scholarship was founded by Congress as the official federal memorial to Truman and is a permanent program to provide opportunities for outstanding students preparing for careers in public service.

The 1978 winners will be chosen in April with one scholarship awarded to one resident of each state, Puerto Rico,. " District of Columbia and the remaining territories considered as one entity.

'Greatest Man on Campus'



Tony Zavanelli, left, sponsored by the Band Club, was one of the finalists for the crown (and sash) as presented Friday night at Foothill High School to culminate the "Greatest Man on Campus" contest. Fourteen boys, each representing an organization, competed in the beauty pageant-like contest during the week. Foothill girls are shown reacting to the long gowns and bathing suit competition held Thursday at the school. On Friday, the contestants went through the talent phase with the high point (or low point, depending on your point of view) coming when Troy Witt of the junior class split his pants trying to do the splits. Students voted for their "favorite" by putting money (5 cents a vote) in containers with each student's name on them. The winner also received a $25 gift certificate from Elby's Auto Parts of Pleasanton. Participants included Kevin Haraughty, senior class; Mike Kottinger, spirit swquad; Monty Winn, basketball team; Steve Blair, drama (who led through the early balloting); Dave Konecny, soccer team; Mike Cerdan, Falcon Angels; Pat Driver, Ski Club; Richard Moyer, wrestling team; Tim Cordes, track team; Scott Henderson, sophomore class; Robbie Dye, CSF, nd John Williams, freshman class. (Times photos)

State early ed program scores

Children enrolled in California's Early Childhood Education Program scored above the national average in reading and mathematics last year, Wilson Riles, state Superintendent of Public Instruction, announced Thursday.

This conclusion, Riles said, is based on data from nationally normed tests reported by local school districts.

"It is most gratifying to report success," he added, "but ECE is much more than a way to boost scores in basic subjects. For example, it offers parents, teachers and principals at each school an opportunity to plan systematically what they want for their children, and how it will be achieved. In addition, it encourages volunteer participation in the classroom.

"This opportunity for participation is being accepted by astounding numbers," he added. "The number of volunteers in the state's elementary and secondary schools increased by 147,000 between 1975-76 and 1976-77 — from 81,000 to 228,000.

Third grade students in ECE schools scored 50.4 in reading when they began the school year and 53.8 at the end, compared to a national average of 50, according to the report. Their initial test score on mathematics was 49.2 and their year-end score was 52.7, or 2.7 points above the national average.

Third grade students enrolled in compensatory education programs for the disadvantaged scored 44.2 at the beginning of the year in reading; at the end of the year their score was 47.7, only 2.3 points below the national average. In mathematics, their beginning score was 44.2; it was 47.7 at the end of the year.

Alexander I. Law, chief of the state Department of Education's office of program evaluation and research, said a long-term look at ECE between 1973 and 1977, based on California Assessment Program data, shows that third grade students in ECE "generally had higher reading scores than students in those schools had before the schools entered ECE."

From 1975 to 1977, Law added, students in ECE schools made greater gains in reading achievement than students in a similar group of non-ECE schools.

Murray trustee quits

Bob Foster, a trustee of the Murray School District three years, has tendered his resignation to the board effective Monday.

District trustees will act on Foster's letter of resignation at their meeting Monday at Nielsen School, 7500 Amarillo, Dublin.

An executive with Mervyn's for six years, Foster learned of his promotion to store director of a new Mervyn's department store p in Corona, Riverside County, the day before Christmas.

He has already assumed duties and his wife, Jan, and two children will be moving to Southern California in the near future. The Fosters hope to locate in Orange County.

A staunch backer of all students getting the best education affordable with the tax dollar, and being able to equally represent the entire district, Foster had a key role in developments leading up to the hiring of a new district business manager and superintendent.

Foster was previously assistant director of the Mervyn's store in the Fremont Hub for eight months. Prior to that, he was a buyer for Mervyn's, which has a Valley outlet in Dublin.

The store in Corona will officially open in March.

Foster was first elected to fulfill the unexpired term of a trustee who resigned. He was later relected and his present term runs through March of 1979.

Trustees have two options to fill the position — call a special election or appoint someone to fulfill the unexpired term. Peter W. Snyder is current board president and Linda Jeffery vice president.

Bob Foster

Foster is the only Pleasanton resident on the board.

In addition to a report from Supt. Jessie Kobayashi, trustees will also consider authorization of a payment of $9,857.13 to the district architect for Dolan site work (costs are authorized under the State Building Aid Fund and will be paid from bond funds), scheduling of summer school for 1978, and appointment of a special education advisory committee.

The board convenes at 8 p.m.

School staff to install Pleasanton unit officers

Classified employees of the Amador and Pleasanton school districts will hold their annual installation and awards dinner Saturday, Jan. 28, at the Dublin Corral.

Guest speaker will be Assemblyman Floyd Mori. The dinner and program begins at 7:30 p.m.

Officers to be installed include Wanda Robison, president; Archie Light, vice president; Judy Rathbone, secretary; Collette Pleich, treasurer; Bev Ales, staff recorder. Membership pins will be presented during the program.

New Murray teacher leaders

Teachers in the Murray School District have elected four new officers, to replace those who had resigned late last year.

Elected as vice president was Vi Egli, a teacher at Murray School; secretary, Doris Battin, a teacher at Frederiksen; treasurer, Celia Zavatsky, Frederiksen, and Donlon zone director, Sheri Anderson.

They will fill the positions formerly held by Mary Bobet, Linda Pearson, Gloria Chapman, and Doug Adams. The new officers and president Allan Petersdorf, Jr. will serve through May 31.

Major TV series considered

Local mystery writer may be 'rediscovered'

Howard Pease, the author of a series of youth mystery books, might just become famous with a second generation of teens even though he died in Livermore back in 1974.

Pease wrote numerous Tod Moran mystery books, about a seafaring youth and his mysterious adventures and travels. Now, Universal Studios is considering turning those books into a Hardy Boys-type television series for th youth market, according to the author's son, lip.

a well-known author back in the 50's w en his many mystery books were read and re-read by teenagers, managed to capture the imagination of his readers with exciting tales of crime and travel.

According to the "Contemporary Authors" reference book, his last address was at 135 Ora Ave., Livermore. But prior to that, the author had lived in Menlo Park and Stockton, and had traveled all over the world by freighter, which gave him the basis for his swashbuckling tales of intrigue.

"They're just awfully good stories," said Philip Pease in a telephone interview from his Tiburon home. The "youth-oriented adventure which is low on violence," Pease added, would "make a tremendous TV series."

Pease's 22 novels, some of which are at the Livermore and Pleasanton Libraries, included titles like "Secret Cargo," "Dark Adventure" and "Bound for Singapore," were what Howard Pease sometimes called "escape fiction."

He wrote, he once explained, "because we need all kinds of books for all kinds of readers." And his readers were clearly teens who he hoped to enthuse with a love of all kinds of literature.

would often spend up to ten months writing and re-writing each novel, and many of his books were translated into French, Italian, Gerrman, Danish and Spanish.

The books were "pretty autobiographical," said Philip, though "not always in terms of setting, but in terms of the dynamics of my father's life."

Universal (television and moviw) Studios "took an option on all my father's books" last year, said Philip, who is now a high school teacher. That studio is the same one, he added, which produces the popular youth mystery series, the "Hardy Boys" and "Nancy Drew."

The studios were "looking for authors with similar series," Philip says. And apparently, a Universal executive sitting around a board room one "remembered dad's books" and hit upon the idea for a series, he added.

Though the option includies all the Pease books, it runs for a full year — and no one is quite certain if it will be picked up or not, Philip explained. The author's son said that Howard Pease came to live in Livermore "late in life" and taught writing in the city ("I think at Livermore night school") and in Palo Alto.

Pease's first hand knowlege of sea ports, according to Contemporary Authors, "came from shipping out on freighters during and after his student days" at Stanford. Pease also taught at the California State University, Hayward and at the Eastern Women's college, Vassar.

Born in Stockton in 1894, Pease died in Livermore on Easter Sunday, 1974.

If the books are indeed transformed into a weekly series, said Philip, it could mean some nice financial benefits for the family. "It would mean lump sum payments for each title that they bought," Philip said, in addition to payments for re-runs.

But Philip stressed that financial payments are not the most important ones in seeing his father's works on film. It could, he added, open up the Pease mysteries to a whole new generation.

"One of the nicest things," Pease said, would be that a TV series could mean the Pease series of novels would be reprinted. "It would be neat to see them get a new life," said Pease of his father's works, which are now out of print. "They're really tremendous stories."

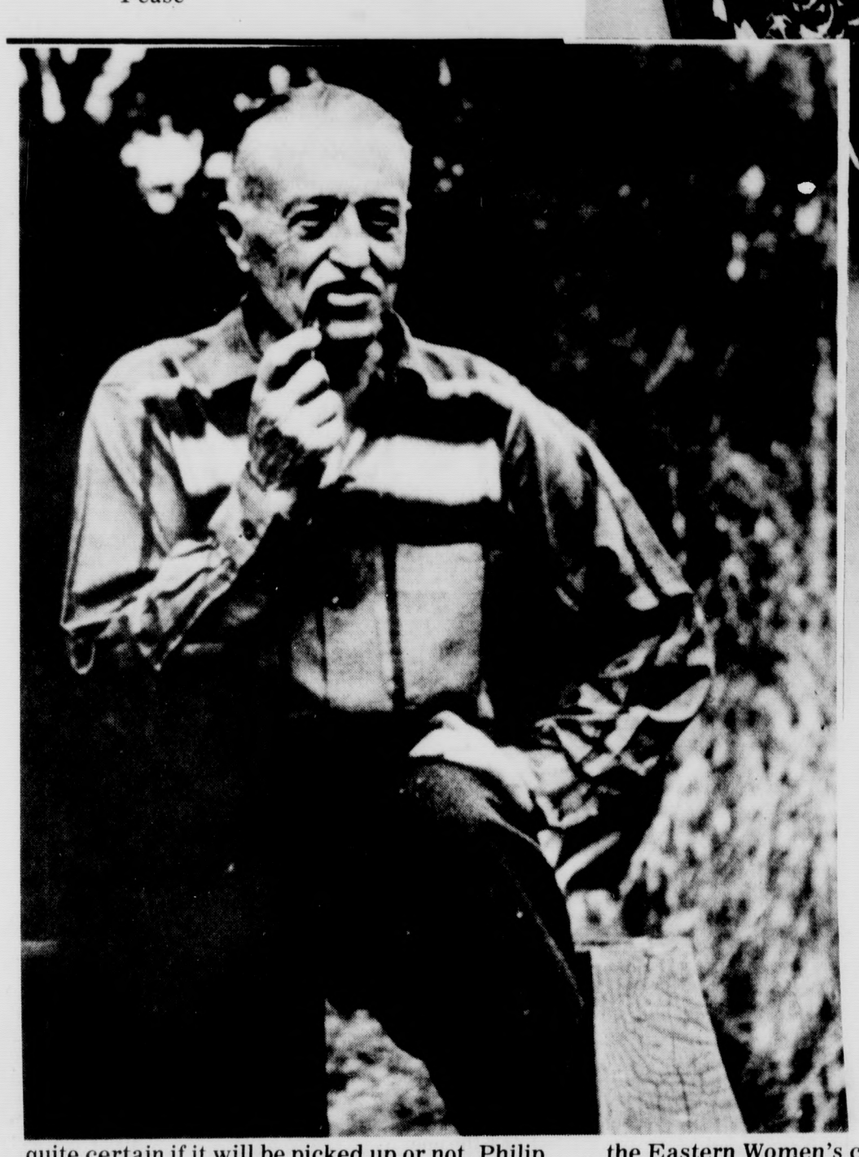
"Tod wanted to scream, to cry out. No sound, however, came from his lips. He was utterly alone on this phantom ship, sailing noiselessly through the midst ...

A cold sweat chilled his body; for the terrified face he had seen staring lifelessly at the deck head was the face of his former friend, Bruce Harvey."
— from "Jinx Ship" by Howard Pease



Volumes of Howard Pease's popular Tod Moran mysteries series are readily available at local libraries, such as Pleasanton's and Livermore's, carrying teasing titles like "The Ship Without a Crew" and "Dark Passage." The author, who had taught locally and at colleges such as Vassar and Cal State Hayward, is shown at left in a family photo. His last address, before his death in 1974, was in Livermore.

Local group aiding in adoption

A home for some of the nation's 250,000 "hard to place" unadopted children has come a step closer to reality with the announcement that a Pleasanton chapter of AASK — Aid to Adoption of Special Kids — has been formed.

"There is no such thing as an unadoptable child; there are only those children who are unadopted" is the credo of their organization which is dedicated to helping children with special needs that make them less than readily adoptable.

President of the Pleasanton chapter, Chris Annen, noted that "they may be physically, mentally or emotionally handicapped, with difficulties such as paralysis, cerebral palsy, missing limbs, blindness, deafness, retardation. Children from racial minorities, those who are physically abused — even children over trhe age of 9 years — are placed in this at category."

Bob and Dorothy DeBolt of Piedmont, founders of AASK, have focused international attention on the needs of these special kids. In addition to 6 biological children, they have adopted 13 others, most of whom are handicapped.

Their experiences and successes prompted a book, 19 Steps Up The Mountain, and a film by director John Korty, "Who Are The DeBolta" and Where Did They Get 19 Kids?," which premiered at this year's S.F. Film Festival to enthusicastic reviews, and will soon be released internationally.

"As AASK is a national non-profit organization which subsists totally onvoluntary donations and fundraising efforts," Chris Annen continued, "the role of each chapter is a vital one. Our activities will be directed primarily toward finding permanent homes for 'special children' by providing funds and informtion, and developing community resources to assist the adoptive family.

"The Pleasanton chapter will be working closely with other AASK chapters and the national headquarters in exchanging ideas."

She concluded, "As AASK volunteers, we are all directed toward a common goal. The response in Pleasanton shows us that a great number of people share our goal and want to help these 'special kids,' and we encourage their support."

For further information regarding AASK membership or chapter activities, please contact Chris Annen at (415) 357-0844 X6602 (work)

Cattle grazing has been reintroduced on a limited basis on East Bay Regional Park rangelands after almost two years of curtailed operation because of the drought. Local cattlemen and district rangeland manager Harry Reeves have expressed cutious optimism that this winter's rains mean a return to "normal" for ranchers and the district which stands to collect $125,000 in lease revenues from the properties. PHOTO BY TOM BURKE

Rains bring cattle back to parks

Cattle are returning to the greening rangelands of the East Bay Regional Parks in small numbers as the district cautiously resumes its grazing lease policy with local cattlemen.

"We all must have the ingredients of strong sun and warm temperatures during March and April to make the grass that's sprouting now not only grow but also to put in the nutrients," said Harry Reeves who directs the district's range management.

"Not that the drought is over by any means but we can look to a recovery if it (rain) continues," he added.

He said the EBRPD staff was "cautiously optimistic" and projected a 60 percent return to normal grazing conditions this year. In "normal" years local cattlemen carry about $125,000 in grazing leases on nearly half of the district's 48,000 acres, sharing the land of 13 parks, preserves, open space and wilderness with other recreational users.

Controlled grazing is one method of reducing fire hazards that can start with uncropped and weedy open lands when the grasses dry in the late spring and summer.

Currently cattlemen are "gambling" their stock will find enough nutritious feed on the lands to gain from 130 to 150 pounds before the ranges dry off.

The past two yars grazing has been so bad that stock was removed to prevent overgrazing that could cost ranchers money later and do permanent damage to the groundcover.

"All the district's tenants are professional cattlemen who have been in the ranching business all their lives and plan to stay in it. They want good grazing to come back year after year," Reeves said.

Among the parklands where grazing has resumed are the Sunol Wilderness and Las Trampas Wilderness east of Danville. Other sites including Del Valle Lake are "awaiting a better assessment of conditions," Reeves said.

Transit help for elderly, handicapped

OAKLAND — Even if AC Transit District buses begin running again this week, local senior citizens and handicapped ought to be aware that they can get emergency transportation and other services by calling one toll - free number — 829-3100, Barbara Hellmuth told The Times last week.

Hellmuth is information systems coordinator for the Alameda County Social Services Agency. Beginning last week, her agency has been trying to match up carriers with elderly and handicapped who have missed AC Transit bus service in the Valley.

Even when the strike is over, there will be people with visual handicaps or other problems who may not be able to use a bus and who should be calling 829-3100 for help, said Hellmuth.

The toll - free number ties in to an Oakland phone at the agency. Last Friday was the first day for the emergency bus service during the transit strike and 60 calls were received. Some two-thirds were from Oakland, "the rest from all over," said Hellmuth, "including two or three from the Valley."

The toll - free number will be answered 24 hours a day, seven days a week, she added.

CC flex-time works

Lesher News Bureau

MARTINEZ — Several county departments have embarked on "flex-time" scheduling breaking away from the traditional 8 to 5 workday.

In a report to the Board of Supervisors, County Administrator Arthur Will said a "particularly popular" option chosen by county employes was the half-hour lunhc period which allows them to go home at 4:30 p.m. instead of 5 p.m.

That type of scheduling is being tried in the Public Works, Probation, Health and Social Service Departments.

Will said benefits of the short lunch hour includes improved morale and better use of time in the office when the office is not open to the public. Most county offices close from 12 to 1 p.m.

Problems with the "flex-time" schedule include absence of supervision during early and late hours, work interruptions due to frequent coming and going of staff and problems with coordination among staff problems.

A four-day work week ten hour day trial program has been implemented in certain sections of Probation Health Agriculture and Social Service Departments.

Will said that for those employees whose work entails considerable travel, the ten-hour day enables them to make maximum use of airline schedules or of travel time.

The longer workday has resulted in reduced use of overtime, said Will.

The problems with the four day, 10 hour work schedule include fatigue, work delays when employes can't contact each other because of different schedules and some inconvenience to the public when a specific employe is requested and his day off occurs during the normal business week. Will stated.

Will reminded the supervisors that the Patrol Division of the Sheriff's Department has been "successfully on a four day, 10 hour week since 1973. That schedule has decreased the amount of overtime he said.

These kids have reason to smile. The Pleasanton Lions Club has just donated a new climber and slide for their playground at the Gingerbread House, a pre-school for three to five - year - olds sponsored by the recreation department. Shown (from left to right) is Lions member Bud Garrigan, pre-schoolers Amy Donovan, Amy Miller and Deena Foley, with Lions member Merle Telford in the back.

Coroner, sheriff answer due

Lesher News Bureau

MARTINEZ — Supervisors are expected to make a decision Tuesday on whether or not to separate the offices of sheriff and coroner and establish a county medical examiner.

While the public hearing on the proposal was closed on Jan. 3, supervisors have the option of hearing more testimony if they wish.

The offices of sheriff and coroner were combined nine years ago. County Administrator Arthur Will has recommended against the separation of the offices.

Supervisors will also consider authorizing the Health Department to seek a $45,000 state grant for a project to reduce unplanned pregnancies among teenagers by utilizing a peer education approach at 10:30 a.m.

County fears big loss from Jarvis plan

Lesher News Bureau

MARTINEZ — The county stands to lose $52.7 million in property tax revenues if the Jarvis initiative passes in June.

County Admininstrator Arthur Will in a report to the Board of Supervisors said the county's property tax revenues would drop from $79.1 million to $26.1 million under the tax limitation.

"Needless to say, a reduction --from the 1977-1978 fiscal year average tax rate for county residents of $11.28 to a limit of $4 --of the major source of revenue available to local government will have a tremendous impact upon service levels," said Will.

The purpose of the initiative is to limit the taxes to one percent of the full cash value of the property as established by the county assessor in the fiscal year of 1975-1976. The full cash value may be adjusted subsquently not to exceed two percent for any one given year to reflect inflation.

After fiscal year 1975-1976, the full cash value shall be the appraised value of the real property when purchased, newly constructed or a change in ownership has occurred.

Teen Disco set in Dublin center

DUBLIN — Tickets are on sale for the Teen Disco that is happening at the request of teens living in the Dublin San Ramon Services District (DSRSD).

The DSRSD Recreation Department is sponsoring the first-ever event that will be held Jan. 20 at Shannon Community Center, 11600 Shannon Ave., Dublin.

Tickets are $2. They are on sale at World Records and Galaxy Records in Dublin, from any Teen Disco committee member and at Shannon Community Center.

"Trax", a top bay area disco band, will be playing along with "Crater Music Company," which features a "dynamite" disco music system, according to DSRSD Recreation Department staff member.

Elaborate lighting and special effects will be on deck. Also, a soda bar and lounge area.

For more information, call 828-7711.

Teen directory on recreation being drawn

LIVERMORE — A Teenage Recreation Directory is being compiled by the Social Concerns Committee to list commercial, public and private activities, organizations and interest groups.

The committee is encouraging community-wide participation in the preparation of this directory by asking anyone with an addition or idea to call Barbara Hempill at city hall, 447 2100. She is compiling information about the purpose of the activity, dates and times of meetings, and any costs which may be involved.

Dublin-SR rec activities start

DUBLIN — Various classes and activities will be sponsored by the Dublin San Ramon Services District (DSRSD) Recreation Department at Pine Valley Intermediate School beginning tomorrow.

Arts n' Crafts for adults will be offered Tuesday evenings in the school crafts room. Learn macrame, decopauge and different crafts for gifts and your home. Cost is $20 for 10 weeks.

Creative Dramatics will be held Monday and Wednesday evenings in the Pine Valley student commons. A $10 fee will be charged for the five week session.

"Standard First Aid and Personal Safety" will be Tuesday and Thursday nights in Room A2 at Pine Valley. Cost is $5.50 for 10 classes.

Gourmet Cooking taught by John "The Flying Chef" Bird will meet on Thursday night at Pine Valley Home Economics Room. The cost is $20 for 6 lessons.

Health program volunteers needed as cardio unit aides

DUBLIN — The Dublin-San Ramon Cardio Pulmonary Resusitation resuscitation (CPR) program needs volunteers to answer the telephone and schedule classes.

They will be asked to work a few hours a week at the CPR campaign desk at the Family Medical Center in San Ramon.

If interested, contact Margy Odell at 447-7000, ext. 174 on Mondays, Tuesdays or Thursdays or Jon Ulricksen at the DSRSD Fire Department, 829-2333.

Odell and Ulricksen may also be contacted to arrange a class for organizations or for anyone interested in becoming a trained instructor.

The goal of the program is to train 7,000 citizens in the Dublin-San Ramon area to become capable of performing CPR.

The Dublin Chamber of Commerce sponsored a fund-raising campaign to raise money to purchase one "Resus-Annie" for the CPR program. "Resus-Annie" is a mock-up used for teaching CPR techniques.

Airport group meets Monday

LIVERMORE — The Airport Advisory Committee will be meeting at noon tomorrow to discuss routine items on the agenda. They will hear an oral report on Fixed Base Operation No. 2, West Clear Zone and progress on the publicity brochure being developed for the airport.

Curbing porn

The latest thrust against "pornography in our town" has come from one city council's attempt to legislate standards for stores that might deal in sexy cards and magazines.

The ordinance being drafted for City of Pleasanton will doubtless be watched closely by other suburban communities for its effectiveness, and for its ability to withstand any future court tests. Livermore has had similar experience with "dirty greeting cards" and San Ramon has been trying to curb topless bars, among other such "adult entertainment."

We share City Attorney Ken Scheidig's concern that the Pleasanton ordinance may stir up a hornet's nest of litigation. We do not, however, downgrade the impact that concerned parents have had on the community, the city council and even the merchants in question.

Yes, there is the possibility that one store owner will test Pleasanton's anti-porn ordinance "all the way to the Supreme Court, if necessary." That is the way our democracy works.

And yes, we still believe (as stated here when The Times first exposed abuses which triggered public reaction) that the best, the most effective limit on pornography in the community is firm, consistent public censure. It has already worked; it will continue to work.

But none of those arguments can shove aside the right of outraged citizens to demand a higher code of social behavior for their town, and to carry that demand before their government.

That is what happened in Pleasanton; and that is why a first-ever ordinance is being drafted to help curb the sale of pornographic material in local stores. It will be interesting to watch the long-term impact of that legislation.

THE VERY BEST we could expect from all this would be that storekeepers realize the small profit gained from pushing pornography is simply not worth the ill will generated among so many other customers.

If there are "adults" who think they cannot survive the week without a Playboy fix, then let them learn to ask the storekeeper for that latest sex-mag. The merchant in turn could have the magazine (greeting card or whatever) available, but not displayable.

That seems like the sensible way to end this whole stupid business.

Domestic help

Editor, The Times:

Assemblyman Floyd Mori is not the only one ired over the paying of five dollars (5.00) extra tacked onto the home insurance premiums to provide workers compensation coverage for domestic employees. Thanks Mr. Mori for your help.

My wife and I will never be able to hire domestic help we can't afford it in the first place since we both are retired and receiving Social Security. The A.B. is unfair to us who worked as domestic employees but were never able to hire domestic help and never will.

Safe effluent

Editor, The Times:

Re CARD's petition for a vote on the uphill sewer, people ask me why I back their drive so strongly. They deserve an answer.

We spend huge sums on sewage treatment. The effluent is safe, a valuable resource with many potential uses. But our cities (lured by federal and state megabucks) want us to pump it up and over Dublin Hill for dumping into San Francisco Bay. No wonder the voters rejected this proposal the first time around!

The cities' feeble reply: we are "mandated" not to "polute" Niles cone, into which Fremont percolates South Bay aqueduct water flowing down Niles Canyon. And so this politicians' pipe dream, to keep our waters separate.

Let's assume that we must keep our highly-treated effluent out of Niles cone. How much better (and cheaper) to pipe aqueduct water down Niles Canyon to Fremont's percolation beds, and let our waste water flow by gravity to the Bay (until the powers that be let us put it to beneficial use). No huge pumping plant. No absurd waste of energy pumping treated waste water uphill.

It could be even quicker and cheaper. San Francisco, I understand, has a reserve line down the canyon for emergency use. Agreement could be worked out to use it for aqueduct water, with Fremont's use for recharging water suspended when San Francisco needs the line in an emergency. Such interruption should have little long-range effect on ground watr recharging in Niles cone.

And that's only a couple of possibilities. With enough voters signing CARD's petition, we may yet force LAVWMA's lunacy back to the drawing board!

Hospital helpers

Editor, The Times:

In reviewing the activities of 1977, I want to thank your newspaper for the coverage you have given of community members participating in the caring activities at Pleasanton Convalescent Hospital.

We feel that Pleasanton Convalescent Hospital is a unique long-term care facility, however, we also believe it is located in an area which the citizens "care" for their seniors. The cooperation of the community has been outstanding.

We attempted to write thank you especially at Christmas time to the various individuals and groups which have contributed to the enrichment of our activities program. Our apologies to anyone who we missed.

Explain Israel

Dear Editor:

I am from Harvest Park School and my 7th grade class is studying about the meetings between Begin and Sadat. We would like very much if you could explain who the Palastiniens are, and what land they want. We would also like you too print a map (since 1967) of Israel which shows the land that Egypt wants Israel to give up. The maps in our text books are out of date.

Thank you very much.

The week in retrospect

Waving red flags

Sometimes you just can't please anybody!

Take, for example, what happened the other night at the county Commission on the Status of Women meeting in Hayward.

Betty Stallings, executive director of the Valley Volunteer Bureau, made a presentation to that lively panel on the women's re - entry program she has been fostering.

We will admit our biases beforehand in this realm, biases that are in support of Mrs. Stallings' exemplary championing of that particular program and the program itself.

But the program, which would assist women returning to work after years spent raising a family or other pursuits, apparently was secondary to a couple of commission members who chose to direct a tirade toward Mrs. Stallings on the subject of volunteerism.

Apparently, to some people, mentioning volunteerism and women in the same breath is tantamount to waving proverbial red flag in front of a bull.

The women's reentry program will be one of the major programs fostered by the Valley Volunteer Bureau in the coming months. As an officer and board member of the bureau, I am looking forward to actual implementation of this program. It stands to benefit between 20 and 30 women initially.

Briefly, what the program will do is to provide positions for women who want to re-enter a job situation. It will provide them with the necessary guidance and honing of skills learned perhaps 10 or 20 years prior.

Having known about it from the outset, we see it as a particularly exciting program that will help sincere, dedicated people in this Valley.

But to have a couple of county commission- "persons" subject a guest at their meeting to unwarranted tantrums is a bit "much."

We were happy to learn that one rather offensive commissioner had to be reminded that she is, in fact, a volunteer also.

Jumping from the sublime to the ridiculous....

It appears the state Legislature has received a preliminary "clean bill of health" from the FBI in their probe into any shady dealings involving senators, assemblymen and lobbyists.

For some reason, this situation has a resemblance to the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) probing into the athletic affairs of little Idaho University while managing to look past the UCLAs, Notre Dames and Texas' of the collegiate sports empire.

Idaho???

C'mon, fellas, leave those poor little guys alone! They're harmless.

But lobbyists and Leo McCarthy and some of those other power brokers up there?

That's another story!

Scene of hatred

I have never understood racial prejudice.

Not since I was eight years old and saw the aftermath of a lynching.

I was with my mother on a short trip by car that took us through several small southern towns.

Although the incident happened years ago, I won't shame the locale by mentioning the name. They aren't proud of what happened.

As we neared one town's outskirts, we noticed a column of smoke rising near railroad tracks paralleling the highway. Shanties bordered the tracks.

Approaching closer, we saw a large crowd gathered along the highway. Mother had to slow the car and stop at times to keep from hitting people who wandered too close to the road.

Some of the people looked dazed. Others were hurrying away from the direction of the smoke.

Mother rolled down the window and began asking what was happening. No one would answer her. Some wouldn't even look at her.

Finally, one young man hurriedly mumbled something. Mother asked him to repeat it.

"Lynched a nigger," he said and hurried away.

As young as I was then, I can still recall the uneasy feeling I had as we made our way through that crowd.

Later that day we learned details from a friend who lived near the jail in that town.

The man who had been lynched was in jail for allegedly raping a white woman.

Later, she regained consciousnesss and told who the real culprit was ... a white man.

But before she was able to pin the rap on guilty man, a group of hot heads had broken into jail, dragged out the innocent man and chained him to the back bumper of a car.

After pouring gasoline on him, they set him on fire and dragged him through town to a spot by the railroad tracks near the shanties.

Our friend said the innocent man's screams were ghastly.

Young as I was at the time, I could not understand how such a horrible thing could happen.

Nor have I ever forgotten the frightened looks on faces of other blacks living in that town and surrounding ones.

Animals, post offices

Animals on loose

Editor, The Times:

Letter to Heather and Heidi:

How upset and disappointed you must have been to find the results of those dogs' damage in your backyard. I felt very sad as I read about it.

It is sometimes difficult to accept such things and to understand why people let their animals run loose to mess up or destroy others' property or loved ones. Some of us are more caring and considerate.

God tells us to be thankful for all things — good and bad for everything has a purpose. Even though we are sad that the animals have suffered and that you have lost close friends, others may learn from this, especially if you remain loving and not angry.

God also tells us to be forgiving, just as He is forgiving of us when we do something wrong. A wonderful, peaceful feeling comes over us when we forgive others.

Postal woes

Editor, The Times:

The Pleasanton Post Office is an incrdible, absurb joke! However, little humor is to be found.

Unless ... you absolutely adore the glamorous and attractive (and costly, at taxpayers' expense) facility which better resembles an Inn rather than a practical, functional Government facility.

Unless ... you are among the many Pleasantonites who frequent the Post Office and truly enjoy waiting in line twenty to thirty minutes with seventeen people ahead of you on a Wednesday (1:30 p.m.) after the Christmas rush to purchase stamps — no express line in sight! And only two clerks on duty.

Unless ... you thrive, while waiting in a seemingless endless and and immobile line hearing several noisy grumbles of patrons complaining about the length of time to wait in order to be "served". Served? Ha — Ha! ...

Unless ... you enjoy feeling justified to break away from the grumblers and make a statement to the Postmaster, Mr. Foster, who is supposed to be in authority.

Unless ... your laughter is heightened after stating, "Mr. Foster, I think as a courtesy, the least you can do is speak with the other patrons — unless you don't care." His response: "I don't have to explain or apologize to those people out there. I've told them in Oakland about this. I care, but I don't have to talk to any of them." ...

Give me a post office resembling a dumpy shack that's functional with an adequate, competent, caring staff any day over a glorified all-show-and-no-go P.O. Facility.

round the town

Most Californians don't realize just how talented a guy their governor is.

Not as a leader. And Jerry Brown will never earn any awards as a public speaker.

But, as a composer, Governor Brown is in a class by himself.

These musical talents have not been too well publicized. What with his term in the Seminary, then as a District Attorney, State Attorney General and finally governor, Edmund G. Brown Jr. has had little time to promote his talents as a composer.

I hope to correct that here and now by sharing with you just a few of the tunes which Jerry Brown has written. I know you will be impressed.

You will recognize some of these tunes as old favorites, and others as more recent hits. That is one of Governor Brown's real talents. He can take any tune that was popular last year, and re-score it to suit this year's market.

Do you remember his "Era Of Limits Anthem"? Jerry Brown has re-written that oldie with a brand new title: "Land Of Dreams And Glory." It was sung for the first time in his budget address to the State Legislature.

And "Nuclear A No-No" ... Jerry re-scored that to "Benign Energy Sources I Love You, Oh Yes I Do." Not too many people understand it, but that's t a problem faced by all great artists. Real talent is never recognized in its own time.

That was the problem with one of Jerry's 1977 classics ... "Meaningful Tax Reform", sung to the tune of "Beautiful Dreamer." An absolute bomb.

Jerry sat down the other day and re-wrote it as "Put A Tax Bill On My Desk In 30 Days" set to the music of "We Won't Be Back Til It's Over Over There!" Sales have already passed the century mark, which still isn't quite enough to guarantee a Democratic majority.

Sometimes, when one of his songs doesn't seem to have the right zing, Jerry will bend it a little, just enough to get the right tempo. His lovely old "Peripheral Canal Waltz" is one example. Jerry changed the title to "The Mondale Waltz", found a Nevada record company willing to press the recording, and insiders say it now looks like another winner.

Admittedly, there are some old Brown favorites that simply never made it. The "Caesar Chavez Cha Cha" was one that even Jerry couldn't shake. "Minimum Goals In Three Quarter Time" is another that Governor Brown would just as soon forget.

Some of his oldies are downright embarrassing. Like "I'll Lower Your Expectations When It's Springtime On The Potomac", or that other 1977 clinker, "The Business Can Go-Go to Hell."

(I understand Jerry has re-written that Go-Go with a strong Dow Chemcial Chemical upbeat, orchestrated for a full Chamber of Commerce ensemble. But they're stilll looking for the right drummer.)

Not all of Jerry Brown's musical talent has been confined to the domestic market. Far from it. You have of course heard "Take Me Out To The Tokyo Ball Park" ... one of Jerry's more mobile efforts. He also wrote "Suzie Sells San Fran Shells On The Sino Shore", under the Peking Label.

In a more continental mood, composer Brown last year gave us "Canadian Gas Capers", sung in both the English and French versions, with Yankee sub titles.

Crossing the great pond, Jerry captivated Londoners with his stirring "There'll Always Be An England ... but don't bet too many pounds on California's future." (For an encore, Jerry played eight bars of "The Brown Danube.")

While in China (Jerry is one composer who believes his state-side orchestra is best served by a maestro with full global range) our leader wowed the Peoples Republicans with his rendition of "A Slow Boat To Washington" and he had them clapping in unison when he swung into "The Mao I See You, The Mao I Need You."

So what's next for this man whose unique musical talent seems in conflict with his alleged political aspirations? Fortunately, Edmund G. Brown Jr. has come up wit one composition that will preserve for all time his abilities as a music maker and as a public servant. Let us join now in singing Jerry Brown's newest and most promising piece: "Will You Love Me In November As You Must In May?"

TV repair

Should the man who repairs a television set or other appliance be held to the same standards of liability as is the manufacturers of these items? Candice Cain thinks so and explains the reasons in an article written for the University of Pacific Law Journal. Pointing to the inaction of the courts in extending the strict products liability doctrine to repairers, she urges legislative action.

Cain traces the growth of the strict products liability doctrine, starting with a 1916 court decision involving Buick Motor Company which held negligence and warranty to be inadequate bases for recovery for persons injured by defective products. Later courts, she writes, developed the doctrine that enterprises creating the risk should pay their own way and bear the loss of injuries sustained as a result of defective products.

Subsequent decisions found that private enterprise is better able to protect against this very risk by obtaining insurance, and that injured parties cannot obtain insurance to protect against all injuries resulting from defective products. Further, enterprise is in a better position than the consumer to know of the potential harms posed by the product and the measures necessary to remedy defects.

But California courts, Cain says, "have conspicuously limited strict liability recovery to transactions involving the sale of a product rather than the performance of a service. She says this distinction between sales and service as a dividing line for causes of action deemed proper for strict liability, can no longer be argued valid as a rationale for refusing extension of strict liability to repairers.

The distinction was premised on the assumption that consumers buy products on the reputation of the manufacturer, not on the skills or knowledge of the seller.

Her contention is that services of a repairer are based on the skills and training of the individual performing the service and it is upon those things which reliance is placed.

She points out that the repairer "hold himself out as having special knowledge or being an expert as to a particular product" and is in a far better position to know of defects.

In layman's language strict liability holds a manufacture responsible beyond those standards applied to mere negligence, and thus Cain writes, is a far greater deterrent to shoddy products.

"With the threat of strict liability looming larger than life, it would seem that repairers, too, would strive harder to provide defect-free repair. Repairers would be required to inspect where they might have been previous disregarded; and to provide full and comprehensive testing of the repaired item before its return to the owner, rather than merely assuming that because the repaired item works, that it works properly."

"The potential for performing these repairs as poorly as the traffic will bear appears to be so comparable to the mass-production manufacturing situation that the same liability should be imposed.'

In furtherance of protecting the consumer and the public policy interest in safety, Cain proposes the adoption of a new law wherein any repairer returning a product to a consumer in a defective condition dangers to the use, bystander or his property, shall be liable for any physical harm or property damage caused by it.

It is another area which might be examined by Assemblyman John Knox's committee which is reviewing California tort law.

"Hey, Buddy, didn't I see you in 'Close Encounters of the Third Kind'?"

Dr. Joyce Brothers

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: Every time my wife and I go to buy a car we have an argument. We disagree on type and color and see the automobile in an entirely differenet way. Unfortunately, I can't afford two cars which would settle our every-three-years hassle. We try to compromise but neither of us is happy. If she wants brown and I prefer red, we settle on blue or green. This year, I let her have her way on the color, but I secretly hate it. Does this mean anything other than different tastes? — M.A.

Dear M.A.: I believe the choice of a type and color of a car does reveal something about personality. For many, the automobile is an extension of their personality. Men are apt to relate to a car in a more personal way than women do. For many men, horsepower has strong sexual overtones. Revving up a motor gives them a feeling of potency. The person who must have a huge car probably is trying to prove his or her superiority through the car.

Dr. Berthold Schwarz, a psychiatrist, feels that color choice is very revealing. He believes the person who prefers red cars, for instance, is flamboyant, a self-starter, an extrovert and a lover of life and of people. Persons attracted to brown are more apt to be solid and responsible, sociable, informal and family-loving people who like to roll up their sleeves and work. Those who choose blue are more apt to be reflective, conscientious and thoughtful, and would rather think things out than rush in.

Until you can afford two cars, it might be wiser for you to take turns being totally content with the choice every three years. This might be one time where compromise isn't as good an idea as taking turns and going all the way. At least, then one of you would be happy.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I'm a high school junior and as long as I can remember I've wanted a dog. We just moved to the country where we have a fenced-in yard and my father gave me an OK. Well, my mom reminded him that my 12-year-old sister is afraid of dogs, so he started to change his mind. I made a fuss and finally, he said something — like, if I could get her over her fear and prove to the family that she wasn't scared any more, it was OK to have a dog. I get very mad at my sister. We don't get on too well, but I'd really like to do something so she wouldn't be afraid any more. — T.T.

Dear T.T.: If you want to help your sister and, of course, yourself you're going to have to gain her confidence so that she'll start to trust you. I believe it's important for her to begin now to face her fear so that it won't hamper her and limit her freedom as she grows older.

Most fears are learned reactions. Your sister must have had some unpleasant experience with an animal which initially caused her to be afraid. Now, she has to learn that all furry creatures are not going to attack. You can help her by gradually introducing her to the cause of her fears in situations that are controlled and safe.

You might begin by taking her to a store where there are fuzzy toy dogs and see if she will stroke and handle one. You might help her to overcome her fear, gradually, by then letting her see a small puppy. Again, this should be in a controlled situation and the dog should be friendly and physically small. Don't take her to a pet shop where you have no control over their barking. If you play your cards right, she may fall in love with a puppy that you both may be able to enjoy.

Q. "WHAT IS A SEXTANT?"
KARL OXNAM

A. A SEXTANT IS AN INSTRUMENT THAT IS USED AT SEA TO FIND THE SHIP'S LOCATION BY MEASURING THE ANGLE BETWEEN THE SUN OR A STAR AND THE HORIZON.

When you travel by ship, one way to tell where the ship is on the ocean when out of sight of land is with a sextant.

A sextant is an instrument that measures the angle between the sun or a star and the horizon.

To find the position of his ship, the ship's navigator sights through a small telescope on the sextant toward the horizon. He then adjusts a movable mirror on the sextant so that a reflected image of the sun (or a star) seems to touch the horizon.

Now, by reading a scale on the sextant, he can tell how high (in degrees) the real sun is above the horizon.

After measuring the sun's angle, he consults a book called the Nautical Almanac. This book of tables gives the position of the sun (or a star) above the earth for that exact time and date.

By solving a special kind of mathematical problem, the navigator can figure out where his ship is.

Jan. 15, 1978

Seek out groups this coming year where you can make connections to benefit your career. The contacts will prove to be of great value.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A few angry remarks will be all it will take to put your household in a turmoil today. You're not the only one with a chip on his shoulder.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Usually you have rather good powers of concentration, but today your attention span is short and mistakes are likely in mental tasks.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Think everything through very carefully today before assuming any new financial obligations. You don't want to paint yourself into a corner.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Being too self-serving today will cause others to back off where they would normally be helpful. You'll be left to fend all by your lonesome.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Today you have a talent for creating unnecessary problems. Do nothing to further complicate an already complicated matter.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Speculative, far-out deals may capture your fancy today and you could be drawn into a scheme where you might lose a friend in the process.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Everything that you do today should be done according to Hoyle. If you depart from your usual high standards, your reputation will suffer.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Respect the opinions of others today even as you would have them respect yours. Putting their views down opens your own to criticism.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There is a possibility you could catch it from all sides today. It won't be for something you'll do, but for something done by one for whom you're responsible.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This is not one of your better days for decision-making. After over-analyzing all alternatives, you may be more confused than before.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Not only will you make heavy demands of yourself today, but others are likely to do so as well. Know when to quit, and when to say "no."

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Long shots will look more appealing to you than usual today. The probabilities of them becoming winners are extremely slim.

North had a pretty good hand for his raise of two spades. Not that it was good enough to have jumped to three, but rather that it was good enough so that any game invitation by South would have been promptly accepted.

South didn't invite game. He bid it whereupon North committed one of the most horrible of bridge crimes. He bid five spades.

South passed. He knew that he did not want to be in a slam. He also knew that he didn't want to be in five, but it was too late to do anything about that.

He was unlucky not to make five. If the defense hadn't started by taking two heart tricks everything would have been fine. If the clubs had broken better, South could have discarded two diamonds on long clubs or if the diamond finesse had been on, South could have made the contract by taking it.

All sorts of bad luck, but North had made all that bad luck possible when he trapped his partner by bidding when he should have passed.

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — A friend said maybe you could give me some advice. A couple of years ago I had my second child, and since then I have had absolutely no desire for sex. Before, I really loved to have sex but now I have no desire.

I love my husband very much and would love to have the desire again. We still make love, but I don't feel anything at all. I had my children by caesarean section, and I had to have my tubes tied for my health. Could this have had anything to do with having no desire or feelings? What can I do?

DEAR READER — It's a symptom and what causes it will require some investigation. In the first place, since you enjoyed your sex life before your last child you should have the potential to continue to do so. You are in a different catagory from the women who never really experienced the pleasure of married life. Your story also implies that your husband was, and presumably still is, capable of providing proper love making, so on the surface it doesn't sound like a technique problem.

Even so, many people who have been married for some time find ways to improve and vary their sex life. It's really not true that you can't teach an old dog new tricks. In the area of sex, most people are apt pupils most of their lives.

The first step is to talk it over with your doctor. Your comment that you had to have a sterilization operation because of your health raises the obvious question. Do you have an underlying medical problem that has sapped your energy and normal vitality? Illness can certainly put the damper on sex for either men or women. To put things into perspective, men who were prisoners of war and got little to eat were far more interested in food than sex.

I might add that people on deficient diets do sometimes lose sex desire. I often wonder about this in conjunction with all the fad diets and crash diets people abuse their body with. An early study in nutrition proved that young men who normally ate over 3,000 calories a day and were then put on a 1,600 calorie a day diet lost interest in sex and had other important psychological changes. So what are you eating?

When he returned, the crisis was still here

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Remember back in November when President Carter, huffing at Congress' failure to enact an energy program, called off his grand tour abroad?

There was still hope, it seemed then, that the House and Senate would pull itself out of the energy mire and pass the legislation in 1977.

Carter said he didn't want to stray overseas while the dim hope of passage flickered atop Capitol Hill. He'd stick around town and help push for his policy, he said.

It appears now that Carter should have stuck to his original timetable. He could have visited the nine countries on four continents in 11 days and hardly missed a point of order in the congressional energy debate. Despite his continued presence in Washington, the energy program became bogged down ever deeper in the quarreling House and Senate, whose conferees finally threw in the towel and went home for the holidays just before Christmas.

So, Carter split for home, too.

Then, nearly four weeks after he would have returned to the White House, he set off on the venture into international politics plotted by Zbigniew Brzezinski, his national security assistant and resident global thinker at the White House.

It was a somewhat less grand tour than that originally on the books, but it took him to seven countries on three continents, and to a New Year's Eve bash in Tehran with the Shah of Iran.

The trip didn't produce anything dramatic, but it apparently gave Carter a new, possibly stronger argument for his energy policy.

Of course, as fate and congressional recesses would have it, when he got back, the House and Senate weren't around to hear his message.

So he told James Schlesinger, his energy secretary who was about to follow his footsteps in Saudi Arabia.

Everywhere he went, Carter said, foreign leaders told him of their "grave concern" about the United States' inability to deal with its energy problems.

What it boiled down to, he said, was that "perplexity and disappointment" abroad was contributing mightily to the slide of the value of the dollar in foreign markets. That's because we're spending $45 billion a year to import fuel, which some heads of state and just plain folks overseas figure is more than we can afford.

Jody Powell, the president's press secretary, put it this way:

"They understand, even if some people over here don't, that the decline in the value of the dollar is directly related to our inability so far to get control of our energy appetite.

"Energy also comes up in relation to nuclear non-proliferation. It's hard to convince people, particularly India, that we're serious about non-proliferation as long as we show no ability to get control of our fossil fuels," he said.

Consumers' defense against bill collectors

Associated Press

Consumers who've been plagued in the past by threatening calls from unscrupulous bill collectors can relax a bit. Relief is in sight, thanks to federal legislation that takes effect early this spring.

The Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, signed by President Carter in September, protects consumers against harassment by debt collectors. It takes effect March 20.

According to the law, "There is abundant evidence of the use of abusive, deceptive and unfair debt collection practices by many debt collectors. Abusive debt collection practices contribute to the number of personal bankruptcies, to marital instability, to the loss of jobs and to invasions of individual privacy."

The bill also says that existing laws were not sufficient to protect consumers. Associated Credit Bureaus Inc., a trade association of credit bureaus and debt collection agencies, says the number of unscrupulous operators is relatively small. The organization said, however, that it had endorsed the new law because it was "workable and fair."

There are two basic types of bill collectors: regular employees of the creditor and outside specialists hired by a company or business to recover an overdue debt. The new law applies only to the outside specialists; it does not cover so-called "inhouse" collectors.

It is difficult to define harassment. Associated Credit Bureaus, in a pamphlet called "What is a Bill Collector?" says: "Harassment can perhaps be described best in terms of situations. For instance, repeated phone calls during the day, calls made at odd hours, threats to the debtor's spouse or family, threats to ruin the debtor's credit rating or to tell his employer and so on."

The new law contains specific prohibitions. Under its provisions, debt collectors may not:

— Use or threaten to use violence or other criminal means to harm the physical person, property or reputation of an individual.

— Use obscene or profane language.

— Make annoying or harassing telephone calls. The collector cannot, for example, ring you at midnight or call repeatedly at 15-minute intervals. — Falsely imply, by the use of a badge or uniform, for example, that they are working for a government agency.

— Collect more than is legally due.

— Hold debtors up to public ridicule.

The law also regulates the type of information that bill collectors can provide third parties such as employers.

If the bill collector calls the company for which you work, for example, he or she may not tell whoever answers the phone that you are being sought in connection with an overdue debt.

The debt collector cannot tell a third party about the debt — unless he or she has your permission. (Exceptions are credit reporting agencies, your spouse and your attorney.)

When the debt collector first contacts you, he or she must inform you of your rights. If you write and challenge the validity of the debt, the collector must get verifying information from the creditor and send it to you.

If you inform a debt collector, in writing, that you do not want to communicate further, he or she must refrain from contacting you again except to inform you about potential legal action.

As of last August, Americans owed more than $203 billion to a variety of creditors — banks, automobile companies, department stores, etc.

As a rule of thumb, authorities advise consumers to limit credit purchases to no more than 20 percent of take-home pay less mortgage or rent expenses. If, for example, your monthly take-home pay after taxes and other deductions is $450 and your rent is $150, your monthly payments for credit purchases should be no more than 20 percent of $300 or $60.

Other signs of trouble include paying bills later and later each month, charging everyday expenses like groceries and letting debts pile up until you don't know how much you actually owe.

New attack

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Detectives searching for information about the Hillside Strangler questioned a free-lance writer who was attacked by an intruder shouting he was a policeman looking for a prostitute.

The Hillside Strangler has killed at least 11 young women since mid-October, some of them prostitutes, and officers believe the killer may have posed as a policeman.

The shouting intruder left behind a detailed handprint, police said.

Lt. Dan Cooke said the Hillside Strangler Task Force talked to the victim, 30-year-old Burton Cooper.

Cooper told police he was attacked Wednesday morning by a man who battered down his door with a fire extinguisher, then grabbed a knife from a table and slashed at him for several minutes

Good views, values in Pleasant Hill

Real Estate

"Premium homes and exceptional viewsites make family-oriented residences at Victoria Crossings in Pleasant Hill a super value," declared John Cadenasso, project manager for Centex Homes of California.

"These outstanding homes, built on hillsides, often feature an all wood treatment," Cadenasso noted. "When you take into account the increased construction costs, luxury amenities and excellent Pleasant Hill location, it's easy to understand why they represent considerable value for the select, discerning few who can qualify."

Custom crafted residences in three and four bedroom design offer up to three full baths and 1,611 and 2,354 square feet of living area. The leisure-oriented community, nestled in the Alhambra Foothills, is located at Taylor Boulevard and Pleasant Hill Road. Prices start at $112,000. Centex has a number of excellent financing plans available for qualified purchasers.

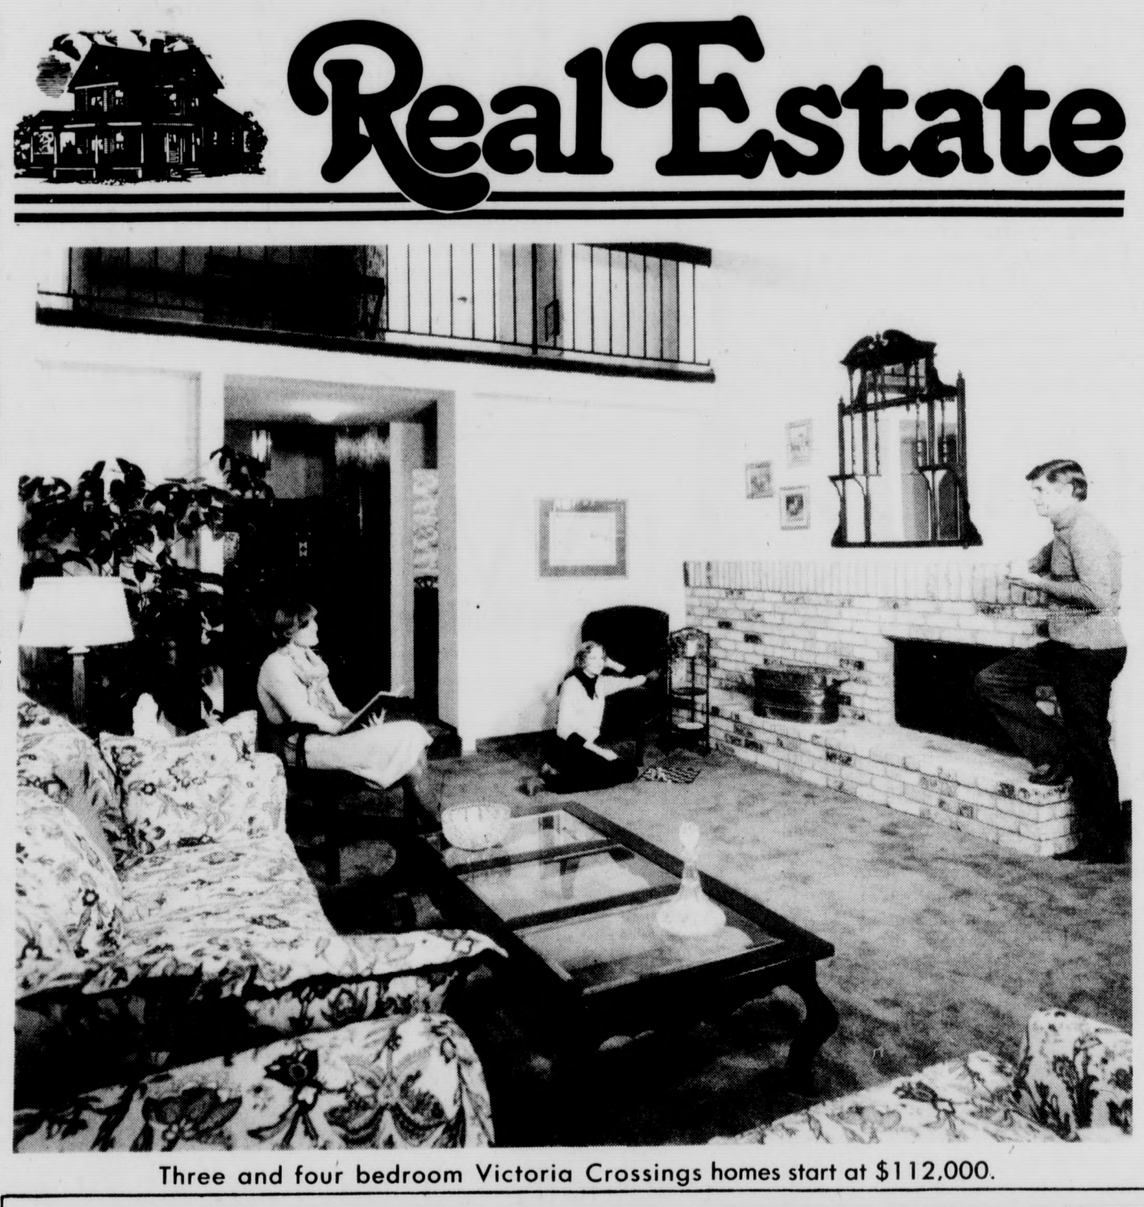
"View sites at Victoria Crossings offer some spectacular scenic panoramas," he pointed out. "The great number of homes in the community that afford striking vistas helps to set Victoria Crossings apart from other luxury home projects.

Cadenasso explained that Victoria Crossings spent five years in the planning and development stages. "Every home is individually sited with an intriguing rotation and placement of elevations and design features to make it unique.

"These scenic view sites, presenting many unusual contours, have inspired the architects to design wrap-around decks and balconies to enable homeowners to take full advantage of the outstanding panoramas," he added.

A dramatically styled recreation complex, for the exclusive use of homeowners at Victoria Crossings, centers around an 1.152 square foot clubhouse which includes a spacious game room, large wood-burning fireplace, full kitchen, restroom facilities and sliding glass doors opening to a 600 square foot deck overlooking the swimming pool. The leisure-oriented structure features wood exterior, unique contemporary roof line and clerestory windows.

"Impressive interior appointments match the distinctive environmental amenities at Victoria Crossing," Cadenasso observed. "Included are two-story beamed ceilings in many rooms, wood-burning fireplaces with a variety of custom masonry facings in sunken living rooms, formal dining areas with decorator-selected lighting fixtures, wet bars, formal entries, nylon wall-to-wall carpeting and elegant king size master suites with separate dressing areas and lavish private baths.



Three and four bedroom Victoria Crossings homes start at $112,000.

Highlighting home exteriors are cedar shake roofs, full gutters and downspouts, fencing with gate, underground utilities and two-car garages with extra storage space. As an added measure of visual interest, some of the garages are detached. Additionally, each home will have its own lawn with sprinkler system and other professional landscaping improvements.

Comfortable country kitchens boast Whirlpool convenience appliances like dishwasher, disposal, range, self-cleaning oven and microwave, ceramic tile or laminated countertops, furniture finish ash cabinets and luminous ceilings.

"Individual plans showcase dramatic vaulted ceilings, walk-in and extra storage closets, private compartmented baths and dressings areas," he said, adding, "Many kitchens feature breakfast bars, nooks and pantries."

Other premium quality amenities provided are fully insulated walls and ceilings, the Centex Security System, air-conditioning, central forced air heating and windows offering hillside vistas. Special master baths include dual Corian vanities, large oval tubs and separate showers.

Victoria Crossings is convenient to BART, Sun Valley Shopping Center, Diablo Valley College and Briones Regional Park.

In Northern California, centex is currently building in Foster City, Hercules, and Sacramento, with new developments planned in Hayward, Alamo and Castro Valley. A wholly-owned subsidiary of the Dallas headquartered Centex Corporation, Centex Homes of California, Inc., is one of the two top producers of housing in the United States.

To visit Victoria Crossings, from Freeway 680 take Willow Pass exit wst on Taylor Boulevard to Pleasant Hill Road, then right to models. From Highway 24 take Pleasant Hill Road north approximately 5 miles just past the Taylor Boulevard intersection at Geary and turn right to the two models. Solar power can pay off

San Francisco — Investing in sunshine as a direct source of energy is a costly venture, but it can pay off in lower utility bills and increased property values, Bank of America says in its latest Consumer Information Report, on solar heating systems.

"Solar Energy: Uses for Your Home", is the 15th in a series of money management and information reports published by the bank for its customers and other consumers. Copies are available without charge at all Bank of America branches.

"You may see fuel savings immediately after your solar energy system is installed," says the report. But, it also cautions, "it will probably be some time before your accumulated savings equal the amount of the system's cost."

Payback rates depend on many factors, the report points out, including weather conditions, your family's heating needs, and future cost of gas and oil.

The report explains how solar energy systems work. It also outlines financing methods and factors to take into consideration when selecting equipment.

Two basic types of systems are outlined in the report — "active" and "passive".

In active solar energy systems, heat from the sun is absorbed in collectors and transferred to storage either by air or by fluids such as water and antifreeze. If air is used, rock bins store the heat; if fluids are used, the heat is stored in water tanks.

Active systems can be built into a new home during construction, or existing homes can be re-equipped, says the report+ but "because of the hardware these sytems use, they probably will require more maintenance than passive systems."

Passive systems do not use mechanical devices requiring auxiliary power, the report continues. Specially-designed elements — such as attached greenhouses, glass-covered heat-absorbing walls or double-paned windows that face south — allow the house to act as its own collector. This system relies on the natural movement of heat and on manual controls such as dampers, the report states.

For a smoother home environment

Learning from the experiences of last year will set the home raft on a good course in 1978.

For example, there were those avoidable accidents caused by poor investment in faulty equipment. A kitchen ladder bought at a tag sale for one dollar was no bargain for one family. The same ladder could have been bought new for only a few dollars more.

The bargain hunter, a large woman, lost her footing and became entangled in the ladder legs, which had been incorrectly repaired. The result was a painful and expensive catastrophe — a broken ankle.

In buying second-hand merchandise always check it carefully, especially where your safety may be involved.

And if you get interested in doing home repairs ask yourself whether you know how to fix that water faucet or bathroom fixture before attempting repairs. It could be a more expensive project than getting the services of a plumber in the first place.

And there were last year's over-buys, all those gourmet acquisitions that were thought to give the kitchen personality — only now there are so many on the counter-tops there is little room to prepare food or even to cook.

Microwave ovens and those blenders, food processors, meat grinders, deep fry cookers and the like that overlap in the usefulness have taken the place of are in some "Show-and-Tell" homes.

Pasta makers, espresso pots, ice cream machines, hot dog cookers, crep makers and other culinary equipment add to the expensive clutter. They could be put on wall shelves or placed on sliding shelves in cabinets that could be pulled out for company viewing, if the idea is to impress visitors.

And remember all th water that was bought because the well was sending up that rusty-looking liquid? One man figured that he paid $7 a week for seven gallons of water, which he used for drinking water and coffee, soups and in the preparation of other foods.

After he stopped to think one day about the price of the ordinary water available — fancy table water was even more costly — he decided to consider other solutions such as a water filter that attaches to a kitchen faucet.

Cowboys five point pick over Broncos

NEW ORLEANS — The Dallas Cowboys remained solid 5½-point favorite Saturday to defeat the Denver Broncos as the week of preparation for Super Bowl XII drew to a conclusion.

Both teams were relatively healthy for Sunday's game except for a touch of the flu which bothered reserve tackle John Grant of the Broncos early in the week and hit safety Charlie Waters and tackles Ralph Neely and Pat Donovan of the Cowboys later.

The only seriously injured player remained reserve tight end Jay Saldi of Dallas, who suffered a bruised left calf during the Cowboys' National Conference victory over Minnesota. He has been listed as questionable all week and on Friday his status was changed to doubtful. In National Football League parlance, that means there is a 75 percent chance that Saldi will not play. Coach Tom Landry said Donovan, Dallas' starting right tackle, would serve as the backup tight end for the game.

As olanes full of fans continued to pour into the city most of the conversation around town concerned the chances of the Cinderella Broncos, upset specialists all season, to KO the playoff-toughened Cowboys in the title game.

A sellout crowd of amost 75,000 fans will jam the Louisiana Superdome for the 12th game in the series between NFL conference champions which has become one of the top spectacles in sports.

Times SPORTS
Dave Weber, Editor

Some 80 million viewers are expected to watch CBS television's coverage of the game with kickoff scheduled for 6 p.m. EST.

The contest matches the two teams with the best records in the NFL this season. Dallas swept to the National Conference's East Division title with a 12-2 record and then eliminated Chicago and Minnesota to reach the Super Bowl for the fourth time. The Cowboys beat Miami for the championship in 1972 after losing to Baltimore the year before. Dallas also lost to Pittsburgh in the 1976.

For their fourth visit to the Super Bowl, the Cowboys drew a first-time playoff team in the Broncos, who stunned the NFL by capturing the AFC West with their own 12-2 record, Then Denver, which had never even reached the playoffs before, eliminated Pittsburgh and defending champion Oakland in post-season games to qualify for the championship showdown.

The game matches two intricate defenses—the Dallas flex which staggers linemen in a sort of gap formation that helped the Cowboys lead the NFL with the fewest yards allowed, and Denver's 3-4 which stacks four linebackers behind a three-man rushing line and helped the Broncos to give up the fewest rushing yards in the league.

The Dallas defense is constructed around end Harvey Martin, who led the NFL with 23 quarterback sacks and was name defnsive player of the year. Safety Cliff Harris also earned All Pro honors for the Cowboys.

Four Denver made the All Pro team: end Lyle Alzado, linebackers Tom Jackson, Randy Gradishar and safety Bill Thompson.

Offensively, the game is a study in ironies.

Dallas' quarterback is Roger Staubach, who led all NFC passers, throwing for 2,620 yards and 18 touchdowns. The Denver quarterback is Craig Morton, second among AFC passers with 1,929 yards and 14 TDs.

The irony is that once they were teammates, competing for the same job with the Cowboys. Staubach won that battle and Morton drifted to the New York Giants and then, this year, to Denver.

Freshman Coach Red Miller, who won coach of the year honors, is given much of the credit for turning Denver into a winner. Besides installing the 3-4 defense and making Morton his quarterback, he instituted a system of rotating running backs with five men. As a result, Denver's lead rusher was Otis Armstrong with only 489 yards.

By contrast, Dallas' ground game is led by rookie Tony Dorsett, who rushed for 1,007 yards. He was only the eighth rookie in NFL history to go over the 1,000-yard mark.

Staubach's top receivers are wide receiver Drew Pearson, an All Pro who caught 48 passes for 870 yards and running back Preston Pearson, who grabbed 46 for 535. Dorsett caught 29 for 273 and tight end Billy Joe DuPree had 8 for 347.

For Denver, tight end Riley Odoms led the receivers with 37 catches for 429 yards followed by wide receivers Haven Moses and Jack Dolbin, who caught 27 and 26 respectively.

Pac - 8 All Stars win
Tatupu runs rings around Big Ten

SEATTLE — Southern Cal's big Mosi Tatupu ran for two touchdowns and caught a pass for another score as the Pacific-8 All-Stars defeated the Big Ten All-Stars 27-20 in the inaugural Challenge Bowl football game Saturday.

The 220 - pound Tatupu caught a 3-yard touchdown pass from Washington quarterback Warren Moon in the first period and scored 1-yard runs in the second and third periods.

Tatupu's third - perOod TD gave the-Pac-8 seniors a 28-14 lead.

Washington State's Dan Doornink, who was voted the game's most valuable player, carried 14 times for 142 yards and set up two scores.

Doornink's 67 - yard run to the Big Ten 7-yard line on the Pac-8's first possession set up Moon's scoring pass. His 11 - yard burst to the outside to the Big Ten 1 in the third period set up Tatupu's scoring run.

The other score for the Pac-8 came on Stanford quarterback Guy Benjamin's 48-yard pass to fleetfooted teammate James Lofton that staked the West Coast team to a 20-0 lead midway in the second quarter.

The Big Ten, a conference not recognized for its passing opened up its offense in the second half as quarterbacks Kurt Steger of Illinois and Tom McLaughlin of Iowa began filling the Kingdome with footballs.

Wisconcin's Mike Morgan finally got the midwesterners on the scoreboard late in the second quarter on his one-yard plunge that capped a 78-yard march. McLaughlin completed three of five passes for 58 yards in the drive.

James Earley of Michigan State crashed in from 1 yard out with 8:38 left in the third period that cut the Pac-8's lead to 20-14. Tatupu, who carried 11 times for 34 yards, followed with his second TD run.

The Big Tan scored once more late in the third period when Steger found Northwestern's Mark Bailey on a 51-yard touchdown pass that was tipped by defender Don Achwartz of Washington State.

The victory completed a four - game sweep for the Pac-8 of postseason bowl competition. The Big Ten lost all four of its postseason games.

Cards edge Huskies

STANFORD — Forward George Schader scored 24 points and Jeff McHugh added 19 Saturday for Stanford as the Cardinals won their first Pacific-8 basketball game of the season, 72-68 over Washington.

Stanford never trailed in the second half and led by as many as eight points. But the Huskies came within two points several times, the last at 68-66 with 1:01 remaining.

The Cardinals made four free throws in the final minute, including one by McHugh with four seconds left.

Washington's top scorer was Mike Neill with 18 points.

Both teams came out of the regionally televised game with 1-3 records in the Pac-8. Washington is 8-7 for all games, Stanford 9-6.

"We had more turnovers than we had on Thursday night," said Stanford Coach Dick DiBiaso, "but we shot well. That makes up for it. We improved on our transition to defense. Washington likes to run, and we got back with them."

McHugh led Stanford's rebounding with seven, while Kim Stewart had seven rebounds, along with nine assists for the Huskies. Stanford held a 34-29 edge in rebounding.

Stanford had only one field goal in the last nine minutes of the game but shot 12 for 17 from the free throw line. The Huskies went to the free throw line only five times during the game.

The Cards led 38-35 at the half.

Holman wins on final roll

ALAMEDA — A strike by Marshall Holman in the 10th frame of the championship game gave him a 221-218 victory over Jimmy Certain in the $90,000 Professional Bowlers Association tournament Saturday.

Certain, of Huntsville, Ala., fired strikes in the ninth frame and three times in the 10th to put pressure on Holman, a sixtime PBA champion from Medford, Ore.

But Holman, who was the runnerup in the tournament last year, this year threw the strike he needed to win the $12,000 top prize.

Holman was the No. 1 qualifier for the finals and had to wait for the four challengers to eliminate themselves down to one. In the opening match, Craig Mueller of Union, N.J. defeated Dick Ritger of River Falls, Wis., 213-204, but Certain downed Mueller 231-214 in the second match.

Certain won his way into the champsionship match by edging out George Pappas of Charlotte, N.C., 195-192.

Besides the $12,000 prize, Holman won the use of a new van for year. Certain got $7,000 for placing second — the sixth time in his career that he's been runnerup. Pappas got $5,000, Mueller $4,000 and Ritger $3,500.

The two-day tournament was sponsored by the Ford Motor Co.

Chabot wrestlers impress at DA

CUPERTINO — The injury - plagued Chabot College wrestling team overcame numerous taped knees, and clinched their second consecutive tournament here at the DeAnza College Invitational last night.

The Glads won over 22 other schools entered in the event. 118 - pounder Bruce Kawabata and heavyweight Tom Thomsen placed in the finals. 126 - pounder Jesse Bails, Nate Triggs (142), Brad Vadnais (150) and 177 - pounder Bill Choate all placd third in the consolation. Kevin Dugan of Dublin also made it to the finals in the 150 - pound weight class.

"The consolations give the team the opportunity to add more team points," said Chabot coach Zack Papachristos. "They're still in and that's an asset. They are able to bounce back, place, and win the team title."

Cal bench provides win over Granada

California High's basketball team enjoyed its second week in the East Bay Athletic League more than the more than the first, putting it lightly.

The Grizzlies won their second straight contest in impressive fashion, this time without their leading scorer for most of the game, in a 72-56 victory over Granada Friday in Livermore.

The absence of forward Chuck Cary due to an ankle injury in the first quarter certainly didn't please Cal coach Bill Herrera. The fact that his team played just as well without him, though, made him more than happy.xg "It hurts to have Chuck out," Herrera admitted, "but our bench came in and did a good job."

Especially important was the defensive job of Cal's Brian Green and Sandy LaBeaux on Granada forward Dan Lambert, who scored ten points in the first half before going scoreless in the second Combined with another horrendous foul situation for the Matadors, the Grizzlies capitalized well on the boards.

In the first half, though, fouls kept the Grizzlies from playing their kind of game. "Fouls were killing us," said Herrera, whose club held a slim 29-28 lead at halftime. "We had to cut down on our fouling, and we had to a better job on the defensive boards."

Herrera was concerned with the rebounding power of Granada, led by 6-5 Matt Watson, who impressed the Cal coach with his ability. But Watson and front-line mate Scott Morton each developed foul trouble and ultimately left the game with their fifth personals.

Playmaking guard Daryl Lamb led a third quarter Cal rally that put them ahead for good.Lamb scored eight of his 14 points in the quarter on four field goals, with a hot touch from the outside. Cal moved into the fourth period with a 48-40 lead.

"He's a good, steady player," Herrera said of Lamb. "We don't go to him outside a lot. Usually he plays the point, but we switched him to wing tonight. They were sagging in and stopping the drive, so we were letting him pop from the free throw line."

Granada never recovered from Lamb's shooting spree, falling behind by as many as 19 points, 63-44, late in the fourth quarter.

6-6 center Mark Kulak played one of his finest games of the year for Cal, leading all scorers with 17 points and making nine of ten free throws.

Joe Raposa, who kept Cal's game under control early on, scored nine points in the first half and finished with 13. Green and Adam Moore each scored nine. Moore made one of the key plays of the game in the third quarter with a three - point play, upping a 41-38 Cal lead to 44-38 with 1:40 remaining. Granada never got any closer.

The Mats fell behind early, 8-2, but hung in the game by coming to within 15-13 at the end of the first quarter.

Faced with mounting foul problems, Granada coach Pat Fracisco sent in little - used forward Brad Wood in the second quarter with pleasing results. Wood's jumper with 1:54 to play put the Mats ahead for the first time in the game, 25-24, while a pair of free throws by Wood 15 seconds later upped that margin to 28-25.

Dons win again

A traditional wallop

Amador Valley's basketball team kept a 20-year tradition alive Friday night with a 78-49 rout of San Ramon.

The Dons, who retained a share of the East Bay Athletic League lead, have not lost to a Wolf team since 1958.

Amador coach Skip Mohatt explained the surprisingly easy victory, which improved the Dons' EBAL record to 3-1 while dropping San Ramon to 2-2, by saying simply, "we just played very well and they were a little flat."

The referees whistled San Ramon for 29 fouls in the physical contest, sending a steady stream of Dons to the free throw line. Amador converted 32 of 45 from the stripe, while the Wolves hit 17 of their 27 charity attempts.

The Dons' tenacious man-to-man defense limited the recently-hot But Howard's hot shooting, which accounted for ten first quarter points, built the Amador lead to 18-11 at the buzzer.

With 20 seconds gone in the second period, Howard hit a 15-foot jumper to spark the Dons a 20-point streak, interrupted only by a pair ho hoops by San Ramon's Mike Campbell and three Wolf free throws.

By the end of the second quarter, the Dons had constructed an insurmountable 43-18 lead and both coaches had emptied the benches to give the reserves some playing tiem. The final half was academic.

Both teams encountered early foul trouhle as the officials detected 11 first quarter infractions and 13 in the second. Three quick fouls on Wolf starting center Paul Ditzell forced coach Bob Fisher to go to his bench before his team had even scored a point.

Ken Noble and Chris Kearns, who scored 12 and 10 points, respetively, each picked up their third personal foul midway through the second period and saw limited action in the final half.

Johnson also committed three first half personalso which hampered his second half play before he fouled out with 3:50 remaining in the game.

Campbell and Ed achziger each tallied ten points to lead the San Ramon scoring. Darren Pembroke came off the bench to score ten points for Amador.

Mustangs continue circus season

"I'll never survive the season," said a weary Rich Jones, head basketball coach at Monte Vista during Friday night's game at Dublin.

His Mustangs were in the process of outlasting the Gaels 47-45 for Monte Vista's third East Bay Athletic League win against just one defeat — and the two point victory margin was the biggest yet in the three wins.

The Mustangs almost sent the game into overtime when a turnover gave the Gaels the ball with 36 seconds left trailing by just two points.

However, an unyielding 1-3-1 zone forced a Dublin miss and when Randy Woods pulled down the rebound he was fouled by Dane Seropian with :08 showing. Woods, who finished the night with 23 points to lead all scorers, cooly buried both free throws to give Monte Vista a solid 47-43 lead.

But Mike Shepanek was just as much a hero as Woods, for he scored all eight Mustang points in the third quarter and was six for eight from the field on the evening. After Shepanek's outstanding third quarter, Woods took over the final period and scored all ten Monte Vista points, including a perfect six-for-six from the line.

Jeff Barnes and Marcus Reese led the Gaels with 10 points apiece. but Dublin simply couldn't find the range, even when Reese led them on a rebounding tear in the third quarter and the Gaels had more than a few shots from close to the basket.

Dublin is now 1-3 in EBAL play and hosts tough Granada Wednesday. The Mustangs travel to San Ramon as they attempt to preserve their share of the EBAL lead.

Hopefully for Jones, it will be a little easier than FridaY night, when the lead changed hands 13 times and the Mustangs didn't take the lead for good until 2:52 remained in the game. The best Monte Vista could do all night long was build up a four-point bulge, but it proved to be just enough.

Dublin's gritty press made every trip upcourt an adventure for Monte Vista, but once they got into their patient, screening offense, the Mustangs managed to convert 48.7 per cent of their shots from the field.

The Gaels shot a near-respectable 41.9 per cent, but missed many of their shots from within eight feet, and in the final analysis that inability to make close-in shots was probably the difference in the game.

Blue Devils upset no. 2 Tar Heels

DURHAM, N.C. — Mike Gminksi scored a game high of 29 points as Duke upset No. 2- ranked North Carolina 92-84 Saturday in an Atlantic Coast Conference basketball game.

Gminski was hot on both ends of the court, on the boards and with inside defense.

North Carolina jumped to an early 4-0 lead behind two field goals by Guard Phil Ford, but the Blue Devils battled back to within 2 at 6-4. UNC, using man-to-man defense, pulled out its biggest lead at 18-12 after 6:30 minutes of play.

Duke's Jim Spanarkel then scored 9 straight points to give the Blue Devils a 21-18 lead. Both teams settled into zones defensively as the game became a see-saw affair with North Carolina leading at halftime 47-46.

In the second half, Duke broke the game open, outscoring the Tar Heels 12-4 within four minutes. North Carolina came back within 7 points at 71-64 with 10:41 remaining.

Duke Guard Bob Bender scored two field goals following UNC turnovers as Duke wrapped up the win.

North Carolina is now 12-2 and Duke is 12-3.

Patterson keys 'Poke triumph, 60-46

Livermore High got the lead it needed in the first quarter and held on to it by taking a 60-46 win over Foothill Friday in East Bay Athletic League basketball play in Pleasanton.

Forward Dick Patterson scored 12 of his team's 18 points in the intial quarter, as the 'Pokes raced out to a 18-6 lead they never relinquished.

It was quite a switch from last year's game at the Falcons gym. The 'Pokes entered last year's contest in first place, only to be upset by the lowly Falcons, who had won just two games up to that point.

Friday night, the Cowboys made sure of reversing their spotted history with the Falcons by roaring out to a 20-6 lead early in the second quarter.

Led by the play of Steve Michell, who scored all nine of his points in the first half, and Tom Schott, who backed him up with six in the half, the Falcons stayed close the the 'Pokes at 39-25 going into the second half.

The Cowboys got moving again in the third period, though, and rolled out to a 45-25 lead behind the play of forwards John Bachleda and Bob Bolen. Bachleda scored four and Bolen six during the stretch.

The 'Pokes maintained a 46-31 lead going into the fourth quarter, and continued to break a Falcon press that couldn't quite stop guards John Farfan and Jim Rogers from slipping past them.

Farfan scored 11 points to back Patterson's game-high total of 19. Bolen added eight points.

Rick Rosenbach led Foothill scorers with 12 points, in his highest scoring output of the year since injuring his ankle in a pre-season tournament.

Schott and Michell each scored ten points.

Wildcats romp over LSU by 20

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)— Mike Phillips scored 18 of his 23 points in the first half Saturday to lead top-ranked Kentucky to a 96-76 rout of Louisiana State in a Southeastern Conference basketball game.

Phillips, a 6-foot-10 senior center, hit all seven of his first half field goal attempts and added four free throws as Kentucky, 12-0, settled the outcome by waltzing to a 55-28 halftime lead.

Phillips scored 10 points during an 18-6 spurt midway through the opening half that ballooned the Kentucky advantage to 40-19 and turned the regionally televised game into a rout.

Rick Robey finished with 18 points for Kentucky, while Jack Givens added 17, James Lee had 12 and Kyle Macy had 10.

Chabot dumps CSM, 87-77

HAYWARD — Chabot College coasted home from a 17-point halftime lead to even its Golden Gate Conference record at 2-2 with a successful home debut, 87-77, over the San Mateo Bulldogs Friday night.

Five Gladiators scored in double figures during the game as Phil Ybarra led the way, scoring 19 points while center Brian Keith scored 14, Steve Fraga 10 and former Dublin High School player Cliff Johnson, 11.

Keith tallied on five of six first half field goal attempts to boost the Glads, along with help from Ybarra, Fraga and Johnson, to an early 10-point lead that gradually stretched to 17 throughout the final 13 minutes of the first half.

The Gladiator pivotman hobbled off the court late in the game with a bruised knee, but was okay and returned to the game as the final minutes ticked away.

Former Granada High School player, Mike Fracisco, managed nine points in a pseudo-homecoming for the 'Dogs.

San Francisco 98, Diablo Valley 79

Darrell Mellion threw in his usual 23 points and guard Mark Harski added 14 but the Rams overwhelmed DVC with a scoring explosion that ended with three players over 20 points and four in double figures.

Foothill 90, Laney 82

The pre-season favorites for the GGC crown got back in the swing with the eight-point win over the club for the Bay Area's hottest basketball town. Kenny Jones led the Owls with 23 points.

Canada 72, West Valley 65

The Barbour brothers combined for 26 points as the Colts erupted from a soggy first half to trip the Vikings on their home floor.

Barry's truce with scribes

OAKLAND — The most articulate of athletes will no longer articulate for public consumption.

Rick Barry hasn't been quoted in newspapers recently. He dressed quickly and left, they said. He refused to comment, they said. The Warrior captain will make those conditions permanent, he declared Friday night.

He's no longer speaking to reporters, because some — and he won't say which — sports writers have misquoted him, he says, on a regular basis.

"I just call it a logical decision I made," he said, touching off an animated, but hardly heated, discussion with a handful of reporters after Friday's win over New York. "It's happened too many times, with too many people."

The decision is not totally out of character for the veteran forward.

His work with CBS Sports on NBA play-off, and other, broadcasts has been praised in most corners, but away from the court or cameraBarry can appear reticent or shy.

With the multitude of reporters now covering the Warriors at home, Barry isn't always sure who's at the other end of the pencil or microphone.

"That's what I'm saying," he agreed. "I don't want to have to worry about who I'm talking to. I'm not going to try and weed it out. Why should I talk to some body I know is going to write it right and not to anybody else?

"That's not fair.

"It's the same way if a kid comes up to me before the game and asks for my autograph — I can't sign for him and not for anyone else," Barry said. "You can't show partiality. So, I mean, if I'm not going to talk to some, I can't talk to any of them; I'll talk in generalities, but not in specifics."

A couple of what, apparently. qualify as specifics were raised. Did he think Golden State's defense hadimproved?

"Ask (Coach) Al (Attles). don't get me to analyze the game, I'm just happy we won."

What about the exceptional play of Clifford Ray in the first quarter against the Knicks?

"Ask Clifford. Ask Al. He'll tell you about it. What do I have to say about it?"

Did Rick Barry play better?

"I just try to do the best I can every night I go out there. You're gonna write what you want about me regardless of what I say, so what difference does it make?

"If you're a good judge of talent and you're a good judge of basketball, you'll write the right thing every time you go out there," he continued under increased questioning.

"I'm a writer, I can't play basketball," said a wire service reporter, spelling out the prime reason reporters dash into locker rooms full of sweaty, half-clothed athletes to collect quotes and quips before filing their stories.

"I wouldn't pretend to know the game," the reporter went on. "No writer should, unless he's played ten years in the NBA. Any writer who tells you he knows basketball is full of s---. There isn't a player who's been around one year who doesn't know more."

Barry replied, "Then why is it when you say things, they write something different? Tell me the answer to that one. If you don't know the answers and you ask me things and I give you the answers and they don't write 'em the way I say it — then tell me why I should keep talking.

"It gets misinterpreted, or they don't bother to ask me something and write an opinion anyway," Barry said, adding, "It's an opinion about a game you don't know anything about — you just told me — if you don't know the game, then how can you write an opinion about something you don't know a goddam thing about?"

It was suggested that musicians might feel the same way about critics, unskilled in the performing arts, who blast a concert.

"Hey, I'm not saying I'm opposed to criticism, you know, but I'm just saying they're not going to have my quotes to be able to misquote," he explained. "If they're going to write about it, let 'em write about it with their own quotes."

Couldn't that be more dangerous, worsening the situation?

"They can't have me quoted

Rick Barry

wrong. Right? OK. It's very simple."

But, you'll have absolutely no say in what gets printed.

"What difference does it make? You're gonna write what the f--- you want anyway.

A writer, on his way to write what the f--- he wanted, stopped off to ask Al. To ask Al what he thought of his captain's refusal to speak with reporters.

"Really?" said Attles, sounding surprised, "This is the first I've heard about it. How long has that been going on?"

It's been going on for perhaps half a dozen games, but Attles, whose team has won four of its last five games, refused to be ruffled.

"We won a few games lately, and that's all I'm concerned about," he said.

EBAL soccer remains in limbo state

If Mother Nature continues to have her way the East Bay Athletic League soccer season may still be going strong when the Fourth of July rolls around.

Friday afternoon's entire slate of EWAL soccer games was postponed due to the rainy weather.

The match between California and San Ramon has been set back to tomorrow at San Ramon. The other matches scheduled Friday were Foothill at Granada, Amador Valley at Monte Vista and Livermore at Dublin. None of these have been rescheduled yet. The Foothill-Granada match was supposed to have been played on the Falcons' field at first but the muddy conditions there forced the contest to be switched to Granada. But it was decided in the afternoon that the conditions there were not suitable and the match was postponed.

The Foothill-Granada match was especially important since both teams were fighting to stay close to league-leading Dublin. The Gaels have a three-point lead over Granada and a five-point advantage over the Falcons. Amador Valley is in third place with a 4-1-1 mark, four points behind Dublin.

McCarthy dies of pneumonia

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Joe McCarthy, the manager of seven New York Yankees world championship teams who was known for his strictness but also his sensitivity and fairness, is dead of pnuemonia at age 90.

McCarthy, a member of Baseball's Hall of Fame, died Friday night at Millard Fillmore Hospital. He had been hospitalized since November.

McCarthy, called "the greatest manager who ever lived" by Edward G. Barrow, who hired him as Yankees manager in 1931, and the "greatest manager there ever was" by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, directed the Bronx Bombers for 15 years and led them to eight American League championships. He managed some of the greatest players in the game's history, including Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Bill Dickey, Lefty Gomez and Joe DiMaggio.

McCarthy was the first manager in baseball to win pennants in both major leagues — he had led the Chicago Cubs to the National League title in 1929, before taking over the mighty Yankees — and he was the first to win four straight World Series, taking the Yanks to championships from 1936-39.

"Marse Joe," a quiet man who enjoyed few hobbies except hunting and fishing, rarely read books, never fraternized with his players and smoked big black cigars, quit the Yankees in 1946 because of a stomach ailment and the presence of the club's new free-wheeling owner, Larry MacPhail.

He stayed out of baseball for one year, then came back and managed the Boston Red Sox for two seasons, losing close pennant races to the Yankees and Cleveland Indians, before retiring for good in 1950.

He retreated to his 61-acre farm in nearby Tonawanda with his wife, Elizabeth, who died Oct. 18, 1971. He lived quietly, and in recent years, he had lost touch with baseball and the Yankees.

"The only time I get to see them is on television," he said.

Cal beats Mats

Cal then took its 29-28 lead without getting a field goal. Kulak hit on three of four free throws and Raposa added a toss as the Grizzlies went ahead to stay.

The win was a much-needed one for Cal, now tied with the Mats at 2-2, one game out of first place.

"If we would have lost tonight, then we'd have been in trouble," said Herrera. "tonight was as solid a game as we have played all year."

Granada's Scott Fullmer played well, scoring 12 points with a variety of steals and lay-ins, all in the fourth quarter. Watson also scored 12 points.

In what will make or break Cal's current run for the top, the Grizzlies travel to Livermore to play the Cowboys Wednesday. Cary is expected to be ready for the game.

Granada visits Dublin (1-3) in an attempt to stay in the chase.

Greenleaf in Tracy is offering this two-bedroom model, with prices beginning at $47,990.

More choice in Tracy

Greenleaf in Tracy is adding another spacious new floor plan to offer buyers an expanded selection of homes, reported Ed Rocca, director of marketing and sales for Standard-Pacific Corp., the builder.

Rocca pointed out that the new model features a central hall plan. "While the more expensive to build, a central hall affords a distinct advantage in family living," he said.

This large two-story, four bedroom home features two and one-half baths. A spacious living room, separate dining area, family room, and convenient inside laundry highlight the new plan. Also included are such current designs as a compartmented bath, secluded master bedroom suite, walk-in closet, formal entry, and laundry area accessible from inside the home as well as from the garage.

Greenleaf in Tracy, located on Lincoln Boulevard at the corner of Grant Line Road, offers an easy commute to Bay Area and Stockton employment centers. Three and four bedroom functionally-planned residences, priced from $47,990, present a variety of custom amenities. Standard-Pacific has several flexible financing plans available to qualified purchasers.

"We've been able to capitalize on early investments, making it possible to pass the savings along to buyers," the builder explained. "As a result, we have the best single-family home prices in the greater Bay Area right here at Greenleaf Tracy," he added.

"Big city amenities are combined with the quiet luxury of the country," Rocca noted. Greenleaf's central location is convenient to employment complexes and leisure-time facilities. Three family recreation parks are situated nearby, and the Sacramento River Delta marinas are within a 10-minute drive.

"Commuters searching for true country living at affordable prices, outstanding home values, and excellent highways leading to business centers have discovered that Greenleaf Tracy meets all of their requirements," he continued.

Custom quality appointments found in all Greenleaf homes are air conditioning, thermostatically-controlled forced air heating, raised wooden floors instead of concrete slabs, acoustical ceilings, wall-to-wall carpeting throughout, glass-lined water heaters, pre-wired telephone outlets and laundry areas with 220 wiring.

Trust fund halted

Los Angeles — Calling it, "the largest reale state trust fund fraud in recent history" California Department of Real Estate (DRE) Director David H. Fox announced Jan. 10 that 21 Southern California real estate firms have been ordered to halt all business operations after a DRE investigation revealed trust account shortages exceeding $400,000.

Acting on the DRE's complaint, Los Angeles Superior Court Judge George M. Dell ordered the defendants to stop all real estate business operations including sales leasing, renting, loan arranging, and handling of trust funds. They are also prohibited from disposing of any assets subject to their control without first receiving court permission.

The defendants named in the suit are: Red Giant, Inc., (dba Realty World/Giant Inc.) which has 15 branch offices. Giant South Corporation, Emco Management, Inc., Woodland Mortgage Corporation, Emco Enterprises, Inc., Realty World Corporation (on behalf of Red Giant Inc., only), Gilbert G. Wirt, Eveline Rose Morris, Robert Albert Lucas, Seymour Jack Corren, Joyce Sandoff, and Cathy J. Craighead.

DRE investigators estimate that more than 70 real estate transactions currently in progress will be affected by the Court's order, and that some of them may not be finalized due to a lack of funds.

The DRE complaint alleges that various defendants accepted more than $400,000 in trust from the public for the purchase and sale of real property without retaining the funds in broker or escrow trust accounts as required by law. It is aleged that instead, the defendants illegally commingled and converted the funds by using the money for unauthorized purposes.

The complaint also charges negligence in the supervision of the branch offices of Realty World/Giant Inc.

It's closer than you think.

Harbor Bay Isle . . . closer to being one of the best places to live in the Bay Area.

We're making it happen on Bay Farm Island in Alameda . . . the last such bayside land left in the San Francisco area.

Here, within sight of a fabulous city skyline across the bay, a master-planned community of superior homes in a unique environment is rapidly becoming a reality.

As you approach Harbor Bay Isle on the completed Island Drive, you will be on one of the most beautiful access drives in the area. Through the "picture frame" of intensive landscaping you will see the pedestrian walkway, cyclists rolling along the separate bicycle path, a jogger out for his morning run.

These will connect with similar paths and walkways alongside the unique lagoon system — over two miles of delightful waterway where you might see people sailing, rowing or just strolling. As the lagoon meanders gracefully through Harbor Bay Isle, follow it to Harbor Bay Landing.

This is Harbor Bay Isle's Shopping Center now under construction. This fall, the first phase, including a brand new Safeway store, will be completed.

Further along the lagoon system will be the Harbor Bay Isle Club. We're planning a $2 million complex for your enjoyment. It will include tennis, racquetball, handball, swimming — complete recreational facilities. When completed, the club will be situated with a beautiful view of San Francisco, and should rank among the finest in California.

Best of all, the builders at Harbor Bay Isle will offer a variety of housing to fit nearly any lifestyle, with prices from about $85,000.

The final realization of the closeness of Harbor Bay Isle comes as you complete your first visit. Harbor Bay Isle is closer to San Francisco than you ever imagined. Close to BART, cultural activities, work and play.

No wonder Harbor Bay Isle is becoming one of the most desirable places to live in the Bay Area.

If you would like more information about Harbor Bay Isle, please call us at 521-1774, or just clip the coupon below and mail it in. We will send you a free brochure with absolutely no obligation. And no salesman will call. We promise.

Property tax break for elderly

Sacramento — State Controller Kenneth Cory today mailing to 6,600 older Californians the first certificates to be used in postponing property taxes on owner-occupied homes under the new Senior Citizens Property Tax Postponement law.

"We estimate that if all these first certificates are used to the fullest possible extent they will cover some $7 million in property taxes," Cory said. "They will make it possible for many of the recipients to continue enjoying their homes in the face of raising tax burdens and inflation battered incomes."

Cory said the certificates are being mailed to the first group of older homeowners who were certified as eligible after applying to the State Franchise Tax Board under terms of a new law enacted lat October. Applications continue to reach the Franchise Tax Board and more certificates wi)l be mailed regularly as eligibility is dptermined by the Franchise Tax Board, Cory said.

"January 31 is the deadline for filing applications for postponement of 1977-78 taxes," Cory said. "Many homeowners are just now learning about the program and they should quickly contact the Franchise Tax Board office nearest them to determine if participation would be to their advantage.

"The program is purely voluntary and even after receiving the certificates, the taxpayer may elect to pay the taxes and not participate in the postponement prodram. In that case the certificates should be destroyed since they are of value only to the designated taxpayer."

Under the law, eligible applicants may use the certificates issued by Cory to postpone all or part of their property taxes for the 1977-78 tax year and any delinquent years, providing the property has not already been deeded to the State because of non-payment of taxes.

That part of the homeowner's tax bill which is postponed by the certificates then becomes a lien against the property which must be paid with interest when the owner moves or the property changes ownership through sale or estate settlement, or if future taxes become delinquent.

"Obviously these first certificates are reaching the applicants after the delinquency date for the first installment of 1977-78 property taxes," Cory said. "However, the law provides that they may use the certificates to postpone the delinquent portion without a delinquency penalty or interest charge."

The certificates also may be used to cover delinquent 1976-77 taxes without penalty and interest charges. If the certificates are used to cover 1975-76 or earlier delinquency, the penalties and interest will be added to the amount of the lien.

"If an applicant already has paid part or all of the 1977-78 tax levy, the certificates may be used to calim a refund from the county," Cory said.

Each eligible applicant will receive two certificates, one for each installment payment of the 1977-78 tax year. When the certificates are properly submitted to the county tax collector they may be used to postpone all or part of the taxes due. Any part not postponed by us of the certificates must be paid by the taxpayer at that time.

Eligible applicants living in Alameda, Pedmont or Watsonville will receive two sets of certificates, one for the city taxes and the other for the county. Other cities are included in the county tax bills.

The certificates are accompanied by detailed instructions for their use. Cory said thosp needing further information may telephone toll-free to (800) 952-5253.

Crow canyon club house now open

A series of parties, culminating with a black-tie VIP event held recently at Crow Canyon Country Club, offically opened the Broadmoor Homes' dpvelopment's new 4½ million clubhouse.

According to Dick Baker, club representative, Crow Canyon is the first country club with regulation size golf course to open in the East Bay area in 17 years. It is situated in the foothills on thp east side of Highway 680 on the north tip of San Ramon.

The stately clubhouse which rests high on a knoll within the 1,028-unit planned community is the focal point of the residential and recreational development. Among its many attributes are impressive vistas of the rolling Diablo countryside.

Design of the clubhouse. as with the overall country club development, has been carefulhy implementd to meet the needs of its members while providing them with a setting of quiet elegance, Baker said.

Approach to the main entry is through the redwood porte cochere, also an expansive area. The floor of this area is covered in decorative squares of Bominite and the overall area decorated with many potted trees and plants and it with indirect flood lights.

The interior of this two-story, 34,000-square-foot structure was designed by Lois Harding & Associates of Orange. Tours of the culbhouse are being officiated by personnel who report that as many as 250 visitors per week view the facility.

The entry doors alone are impressive, Baker noted. Made of sculptured bronze with no hardware, they simply push to open or close. On either side, tinted windows effuse natural light into the interior entry.

This spacious entry crowned by a crystal chandelier hanging from strained redwood ceilings, is made even more spacious by its walls of beveled mirrors in redwood panels.

To the right of the entry area is the mirrored chandelier-lit stairwell. In the skylighted redwood panelled gallery are live trees and plants.

The clubhouse offers two dining areas which provide banquet spating for over 450 persons and special room dividers for private receptions or parties. There is a board room which may be utilized for private receptions and an "immense" kitchen which is one of the more modern and complte club kitchens in the area, said Baker. Designed to showcase the countryside, the dinning areas have floor-to-ceiling windows with a panoramic view of the community and distant hills.

A cocktail bar and lounge area seats 50 persons. This room is topped by six 3' x 6' stained glass panels. On the wall is a large replica of the sculptured bronze entry doors. An adjacent fireplace emanates warmth adding to the comfortable atmosphere for which thp room was designed.

Downstairs, a snack bar serves the men's grill room, ladies' grill, outside golfers, tennis players and swimmers. An elegant cocktail lounge features a sunken mirrored bar lighted by chande Liers and stained glass windows. A locker room, card playing area, showers and tilelinpd jacuzzi are part of the men's facility.

For the ladies, there is a lounge with cocktail and food service, and a locker room with vanity, rest area, showers and Jacuzzi spa.

A fully stocked golf and pro shop is headed by PGA professional Larry O'Leary and staff. AvailabLe here are lessons, equipment, golf club care and storage. A fleet of electric golf cars is housed in the lower club area.

The tennis shop has a commanding view of the lighted tennis complex. It too offers equipment and a professional staff headed by tennis professional, Lance King. A locker and shower area for tennis players and swimmers is included.

Crow Canyon's 18-hole golf course, designed by golf course architect Theodore Robinson, contains five lakes, 56 sand traps, elevated sculptured greens, and eight-foot-wide continous cement cart paths. Landscaping of this challenging course, upon completion will contain some 3,000 mature specimen trees.

An AAU competition size swimming pool has six racing lanes, one and three meter diving boards with adjacent shower and locker areas.

To reach Crow Canyon Country Club, take Highway 680 to the Crow Canyon Road exit east, and go directly to the community. The clubhouse is located at 711 Silver Lake Drive. Country Club memberships are available subject to the conditions of application. A founding members program will be offered through December 31.

The new lounge at Crow Canyon Club's $4.5 million clubhouse.

Real estate seminars set

Workshops, seminars and evening classes for professionals in real estate and allied fields will be presented in the Bay Area this winter and spring by UC-Berkeley Extension.

Leading off the 1978 program will be a two-day seminar, "The Systems Approach to Tax-Deferred Real Estate Exchanges," conducted Jan 21-22 at the UC Extension Center in San Francisco by investor Harley Smith.

"Developing a Real Estate Counseling Practice," a one-day seminar led by Beverly Hills realtor and consultant Alan Herd, is scheduled for Jan. 26 at the San Francisco center and will also be offered again there March 16.

"The Shopping Center Game", a look at the principles and practices of this form of retail commercial real estate transaction, will be a one-day seminar held Feb. 3 at the Holiday Inn, 750 Kearny St., San Francisco, with instruction by Beverly Hills broker Steven Soboroff.

A spectrum of 11 evening classes will get under way during the week of Feb. 6. Scheduled at the UC Extension Center in San on Feb. 11 at the San Francisco center.

On March 2 "101 Things You Should Know About Converting Apartments into Condominiums" will be outlined in a seminar led by consultants Sanford Goodkin and Alan Nevin at the Holiday Inn, 750 Kearny St., San Francisco.

Fulton St., Berkeley, 642-4111, or from the UC Extension Center, 55 Lugana St. (at Market St.), San Francisco, 861-6833.

Ben Axt has been appointed landscape manager at Crow Canyon Country Club. He has held similar positions for the Mission Viejo Company, and Los Angeles Country Club.

Migrant help

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The U.S. Labor Department has signed a contract with the United Farmworkers of America to give English language training and other services to about 1,500 migrant and seasonal farm laborers in California.

The $500,000 contract was signed Wednesday in Washington by Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall and union president Cesar Chavez, according to the Labor Department's regional office.

The contract is the first federal grant for Chavez' union, officials said.

The year - long program will begin next month at the National Farmworkers Center Inc. at La Paz - Keene in Kern County. It will serve poor farmworkers as well as migrants.

Make a million lose a few

OAKLAND (AP) — William E. Nickerson, author of "How I Turned $1,000 Into a Million in Real Estate in My Spare Time," is out a few bucks because some of his tenants complained he wasn't much of a landlord.

Nickerson, owner of the 95- unit La Peralta apartment complex here, Thursday lost a suit he filed in Oakland Municipal Court against 13 of his tenants, threatening eviction if they did not pay back rents.

The irate tenants of the 50- year-old complex launched a rent strike and hired an attorney. In objections filed to Nickerson's suit, they complained of cockroaches and vermin, too few garbage cans, dirty floors, stopped-up plumbing, poor lighting, sticking doors, faulty wiring, a balky elevator and holes in walls — among other things.

They claimed they had a right to withhold their rent until the place was fixed up.

Judge Ken Kawaichi agreed. He ordered Nickerson to make repairs, forbade him from raising rent for the next three months, and required him to compensate tenants for their suffering by reducing the amount of rent they owed him.

Nickerson's book has been a best-seller in its field since it was published a few years ago.

DEAR FRIEND....
Daddy's been transferred, I'll never find another friend like you. Mommy says we'll never find another home like this 3 bedroom, 2 bath Mommy spent some much time painting and wallpapering and Daddy loves the family room fireplace. He sure worked hard putting in the patio. I love my school, 2 blk.s. away. Our Real Estate Broker says $71,500 is a fair price. Some of my friends homes sold for more ... but Daddy's company says we have to hurry. Do you think I'll find another friend like you? I hope the new kids in my home meet you....
P.S. Please call Daddy's friend.

MILLION DOLLAR $BINGO!$

OVER $1,000,000.00 IN CASH PRIZES AVAILABLE

OFFICIAL RULES (Series SC-17)

1. NO PURCHASE NECESSARY. Get a FREE - MILLION $$ BINGO ticket and collector card on request at participating Safeway stores - one ticket per adult (18 years or older) per store visit. All collector cards are identical.

2. EASY TO PLAY. Using edge of coin, gently scratch-off all silver boxes on the face of the ticket.
INSTANT WIN - If any 3 identical dollar amounts appear in a straight row, either horizontally, verticaly or diagonally, you win the amount indicated, after verification. For example, three $100 amounts in a straight row wins $100.
COLLECT & WIN - Each ticket has two perforated bingo number pieces at the bottom. Separate the pieces and place them in the matching bingo number spaces on the collector card, using the special slits cut into card to hold the piece. Collect bingo numbers to properly complete any straight row of 4 boxes, either horizontally, vertically or diagonally. Prize is limited to amount shown for game regardless of the number of rows completed. No pieces needed in spaces marked FREE. FREE spaces are not transferable.

3. PRIZE CLAIM. Submit ticket and collector card with completed row to Store Manager or authorized personnel for verification. All submitted game tickets and collector card pieces should be initialed in the presence of the store personnel. Prizes of $100 and over will be paid by check from the sponsor's office.

4. Only materials marked Series "SC-17" may be used for this promotion and only when legitimately obtained from authorized personnel in participating stores.

5. We reserve the right to reject and void any promotion materials containing printing or other errors.

6. Promotion materials will be void if illegible, altered, mutilated, forged, tampered with in any way, not obtained legitimately, or where prohibited by law.

7. All materials submitted for verification become the property of the sponsor. Tax liability on prizes is the responsibility of the prize winners.

8. This promotion is available at 287 Safeway stores located in Northern California (275) and Northwest Nevada (12). Employees of Safeway Stores, Inc., its advertising agencies, its game suppliers and members of their immediate household families are not eligible to play.

9. This promotion is scheduled to end on April 15, 1978. It will officially end, however, when all tickets are distributed, at which time a newspaper announcement of promotion termination will be made. All prizes must be claimed within 7 days after announcement or they are forfeited.

10. This promotion may be repeated when this series ends.
